

COLLINS ALIVE, SURGEON SAYS AFTER TESTS

Shaft To Entombed Man In Sand Cave Slowly Sunk On Eve of Probe of Rumors of Hoax.

GOVERNOR CALLS MILITARY COURT

Tunnel From Surface Has Reached Halfway Point, Though Drill Has Gone Farther Into Earth.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. Cave City, Ky., February 9.—As preparations got under way late today for a military investigation of the situation at Sand Cave, where Floyd Collins has been entombed since Friday, January 30, miners digging a new entrance to the cave, reached approximately the half-way point.

Tests with sound amplifiers, indicating that Collins lives, despite his more than 10 days' entombment, revived hopes that the imprisoned man may yet be rescued alive.

A military court, called by Governor W. J. Fields, will meet tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock to make an inquiry into rescue work done and circumstances surrounding Collins' imprisonment. Brigadier General H. H. Denhardt, who is in command of the situation, will conduct the inquiry. M. E. S. Posey, personal representative of the governor, said.

All witnesses available will be heard in an endeavor to get at the bottom of the many rumors and charges that have been current here as the rescue work progressed.

Down About 33 Feet. Sessions of the military court, Lieutenant Governor Denhardt announced, will be public, and as soon as possible, the court will announce its findings so that the public may have all the facts.

Should any evidence of a crime be discovered, the court could bind over to the grand jury any one implicated, and if the inquiry finds no evidence of fraud, hoax or crime, the court, Mr. Denhardt said, wants the country to know it.

As night settled over the barren county hills, the sappers were digging at around 33 feet. The test drill had reached a depth of 70 feet, when the testing was discontinued for the present. Hard rock had been struck at that depth.

The probability that Collins still was alive was given credence today, when Dr. William Hazlett, of Chicago stated that Collins was alive and that he was not suffering from pneumonia.

Dr. Hazlett made the statement after the sound amplifier had been attached to the electric wiring leading back to the victim's head and a test made.

Confident He Is Alive. "The test proved conclusively that Collins was breathing at the rate of 22 to 26 times a minute," said the surgeon. "Normal respiration is 16 times a minute. It is natural that a person gasping for breath or whose vitality had ebbed low would breathe faster. Pneumonia patients breathe at the rate of 40 times a minute."

"Because of the regularity of the vibratory sounds, I am confident that the noises we heard were made by the electric light bulb raising and lowering with Collins' breathing."

"We tried in various ways to reproduce the same sound and were unsuccessful. The sounds were with clock-like rhythm, and I am confident it was respiration we heard."

H. T. Carmichael, in charge of the sinking of the shaft to Collins, said that he had knocked on the wires in the cave with stones and had moved the wires, but received no sound similar to that accepted as Collins' breathing. Dropping of water was tried, he said.

$9,000 IS SUBSCRIBED TO GEORGIA'S FUND FOR BERRY SCHOOLS

GOOD START MADE IN DRIVE TO MEET OFFER OF CANDLER

Large Pledges Announced At Meeting of Atlanta Members of Berry Board of Trustees.

GIFT OF CANDLER HIGHLY PRAISED

Constitution Notified of Subscriptions of Several Thousand Dollars Prior to Board Meeting.

Rome Chamber Praises Berry School Offers
The Rome Chamber of Commerce Monday afternoon adopted resolutions of appreciation for the offer of Adolph S. Ochs and the action of Asa Candler, Jr., in behalf of the Berry schools. The Rome organization also adopted resolutions praising The Constitution for its efforts. John N. Graham, president of the Rome Chamber of Commerce, will come to Atlanta today to confer with trustees of the school fund.

With more than $9,000 subscribed toward the Georgia quota in the $1,000,000 Berry school fund, the campaign to match the $50,000 offered Saturday by Asa Candler, Jr., was well under way Monday.

The Constitution was notified of subscriptions totaling several thousand dollars prior to the meeting in Atlanta of the board of trustees of the Berry schools in the afternoon, at which other sums were pledged, making a total exceeding $9,000.

This meeting was called following the offer made by Asa G. Candler, Jr., to match every dollar raised by The Constitution up to $50,000.

Of the proposed fund of $1,000,000, which Adolph Ochs, publisher of the New York Times, has pledged himself to raise for the north Georgia mountain schools, Georgia has undertaken the raising of $100,000, one-tenth of the total to be raised. Of this $100,000, half is provided for in the generous offer of Mr. Candler who, moved by the opportunity to perform a genuine service for humanity, has offered to match whatever amount other Georgians subscribe, up to a total of $50,000. This leaves only $50,000 in all for Georgia to raise, in order to bring to the Georgia educational institution which is probably doing more for the youth of the mountain regions than any other school, a million dollar endowment. In other words, for every dollar now subscribed in Georgia, nineteen other dollars will be given; multiplying the individual gifts in a ratio of 20 to 1.

Subscriptions to date have been received from the following:

Robert C. Alston $1,000
Weyman & Connors 1,000
H. M. Atkinson 1,000
Mrs. Elizabeth Winslow Bates 1,000
Clark Howell 1,000
R. F. Maddox 1,000
J. B. Campbell 1,000
W. W. Orr 500
J. K. Orr 500
R. W. Woodruff 1,000

Two Subscriptions Received.
Acknowledgment already has been made of the gift of $100 from J. L. Phillips and another similar subscription was received Monday from Lee J. Langley, prominent Rome attorney and former member of the state legislature.

The Atlanta members of the board of trustees of the Berry schools met Monday afternoon in the office of Robert C. Alston, chairman, at which time a formal vote of thanks and appreciation was passed.

It was decided that the trustees would hold another meeting at noon Tuesday, at which time it is expected that Miss Martha Berry, founder of the schools, can be present. Miss Berry will then be asked for any suggestions she may have to make in regard to the raising of the additional money needed and will consult with the trustees as to the best methods to be followed.

Meets Financial Deficit.
It was pointed out at Monday's meeting that, during the entire 23 years of the schools' existence, it has been almost entirely due to Miss Berry's personal effort and sacrifice that the financial needs have been met. One member of the board stated that each January 1 she has been faced with the necessity of meeting a financial deficit. This she has done, each

Georgians—Let's Go!!

Adolph Ochs, publisher of The New York Times, has pledged himself to raise $1,000,000 for the Berry schools, north of Rome, Ga., and asks Georgia to subscribe the first $100,000.

Asa Candler, Jr., has taken care of half Georgia's quota by promising to match whatever Georgia gives, up to $50,000.

Georgia's illiterate sons and daughters, the youth of the isolated mountain cabins, depend upon Berry for their education—their hope in life. They are of the finest stock in the land—given the chance they make the finest type of American manhood and womanhood.

Georgians, let us give, gladly and voluntarily, without the need of persuasion; without the necessity of an organized "drive." Let's meet the call at once.

Of the $50,000 needed, $10,000 has already been given. If forty more men will give $1,000 each the task is done. Or if 80 give $500 each.

Payments may be divided, if you wish, into four parts—the first on July 1, 1925, the second, January 1, 1926, the third July 1, 1926 and the fourth January 1, 1927.

Send your subscriptions either to The Constitution, or to Robert C. Alston, chairman of the Berry Schools board of trustees, Citizens & Southern bank building. In either case, they will be promptly acknowledged.

Now, let's go!

Primitive Georgians Given Training at Berry Schools

STUDENTS COOK MEALS, WAIT ON TABLES

BY RALPH T. JONES. It was near the end of August, 1923, when, as guests of the Berry schools, just north of Rome, Ga., our party sat down to supper in the dining hall of the boys' grammar school, back in the mountainous part of the long strip of land on which the schools are located.

The building was a picturesque structure of uneven logs, with interiors filled with clay and mortar. The students had erected it themselves, just as they had all the other buildings of the school.

The supper was served by the students. They had cooked it and they waited on the tables. Boys and men, ranging in age from the early teens to above 40, sat at the tables, healthy work-induced appetites nobly met by healthy, well-cooked country food.

One of the ladies in our party remarked on the excellence of the bread which we were eating. "I never ate better loaf bread," she said.

"That boy baked it," remarked our dinner companion, pointing to a splendid specimen of boyhood, about 14 years old, who was at the moment waiting on the table.

The women in the party looked with new respect on the boy. He was a magnificent specimen of American youth, of the finest type. His features were pure Anglo-Saxon and his every look bespoke intelligence, cleanliness and self-respect.

At the end of the meal another youth, a couple of years older, rose. Following the custom of the school, he read a few verses from the Bible, briefly explained them—sincerely, intelligently and thoughtfully—then said a short prayer before his fellows turned to their final task of the day—washing the dishes, clearing the dining room and then to bed.

After the prayer, the man who was showing us over the schools turned and said: "The boy who led the prayer and the boy who baked the bread are brothers. I would like to tell you their story."

Boys Orphaned By Law.
Just three years before the night of our visit a notorious moonshiner and outlaw had been captured by law-enforcement officers. Just which of his innumerable offenses against the laws of God and man had led to his capture and punishment, doesn't matter. Suffice it to say he was tried, convicted and sentenced to a long term in the state prison.

After his trial and sentence, stories were heard, indefinite, vague, but persistent, about a strange condition back in the mountains where the convicted moonshiner had his cabin home.

Details varied, but all stories told of two boys, sons of the moonshiner, who were said to be living alone. Their mother had gone, following the father's arrest, and no one knew what had become of her. The two boys were alone, living in a miserable shack, deep in the forests, perched on the side of a steep hill. They were reported to be running wild, and by "wild" is not meant the "wildness" that idiomatic exaggeration uses when explaining the average boy of civilization who lets the

PLANNING BOARD PROBE OF TRUSTS 'RED TAPE' IS HIT

W. B. Atchison To Ask Council To Abolish Zoning Appeals Board and Make Other Changes.

Plans to abolish the board of zoning appeals, and to take amendments to the city's zoning ordinance out of the hands of the ordinance committee by sending them direct to city council from the city planning commission, were announced Monday by W. B. Atchison, a member of the commission.

Mr. Atchison branded much of the present procedure as so much red tape, and declared that much time could be saved and confusion eliminated by abolishing the board of appeals and sending recommendations direct to council from the commission. He explained that exhaustive public hearings are held before the commission on every petition, and that further hearings are unnecessary.

PRISON CHAPLAIN SAYS HE TOOK BRIBE

Father Thos. P. Hayden Tells of Alleged Conspiracy At Trial of Sartin, Fletcher and Rhine.

ADmits RECEIVING $2,100 AS HIS SHARE

Tells Jury Fletcher Asked Him To Get Money From Other Prisoners. Many Questions Barred.

Following admission by Father Thomas P. Hayden, former Catholic chaplain at the penitentiary, that he received $2,100 as his share of an alleged financial scheme whereby officials at the prison accepted bribes in return for special privileges to prisoners, indications Monday were that the trial of A. E. Sartin and L. J. Fletcher, former warden and deputy warden, respectively, and Lawrence Rhine, of Columbus, Ohio, charged with conspiracy to accept bribes, probably would not be completed before the end of the week.

Father Hayden took the stand shortly after the jury was drawn and testified continuously until 3:30 o'clock when court was recessed until 10 o'clock this morning. Judge Robert T. Erwin, of Mobile, is presiding at the trial.

Although United States District Attorney Clint W. Hager, who is prosecuting the case, would not state definitely what other witnesses would take the stand for the government today, it is practically a certainty that all of the prisoners who testified before the grand jury when the indictments were returned will be called as witnesses. Some of these will be called today, it is thought.

Hayden Under Fire.
The former Catholic chaplain took the stand at 12:30 o'clock and for three hours answered a barrage of questions fired at him by both the defense and the prosecution, remaining for the most part calm and collected in his answers. Sartin, Fletcher and Rhine sat throughout the session with the attorneys, quiet and unmoved by any of the testimony, and silent for the most part. The small courtroom in the federal building was crowded throughout the first day of the trial.

Father Hayden, answering questions from the district attorney, testified that in February, 1924, he had conversation with Fletcher regarding the collection of certain money. Father Hayden said:

"Mr. Fletcher told me that a certain man had been to see him in reference to certain prisoners coming to Atlanta from Savannah. This man, Mr. Fletcher said, had stated that he would pay $15,000 for consideration looking to their welfare during their stay at the prison."

"At this time Graham Baugh came here from Savannah, and I had a talk with him. On the next day Willie Haas, C. C. Tuton and Richard Bates came to Atlanta. I met them and Haas said that several men were coming to the penitentiary soon from Savannah, and were willing to pay for special privileges at the institution. I told him that I was not in a position to grant these privileges, but would speak to Mr. Fletcher about the matter."

On March 18 Mr. Fletcher told me

YOUTH CONFESSES FILLING CAPSULES

Mystery of Death of College Students Is Believed Cleared Up—Criminal Intent Missing.

Columbus, Ohio, February 9.—Lewis Fish, Canton, Ohio, tonight told authorities investigating the death of two Ohio State university students and the serious illness of many others from capsules of strychnine, that he had filled the prescription of David Puskin, Canton (Ohio) student, at the university's laboratory. Puskin died from strychnine poisoning.

Fish was arrested tonight and is being held for investigation.

Fish told officials that he had entered the college dispensary without authority and filled a prescription for Puskin for "six R and W" (six red and white capsules) issued by Dr. H. H. Shindler, head of the university health service.

"Held Back" Information.
In addition to the strychnine capsule, which caused Puskin's death, another capsule was found in his possession which, when analyzed, was found to contain nothing but strychnine.

Fish, who had been questioned by authorities at the opening of the investigation, without divulging any information, declared tonight he had "held back" because he did not wish "notoriety" in connection with the investigation.

Fish, a friend of Puskin, said that Puskin had come to him complaining of a cold, and that he volunteered to go to the college dispensary and get some medicine, and when refused admission by attendants in charge, went in another door, got the "quinine"

PAYMASTER MISSING AT STATE HIGHWAY EAST POINT SHOPS

Chaplins Are Happy Again NO THOUGHT OF FINANCIAL SETTLEMENT, SHE SAYS As Mother-in-Law Goes Home

Hollywood, Cal., February 9.—Perhaps, after all, it was a mother-in-law who prevented harmony in the Charlie Chaplin home.

Now that Mrs. Lillian Spicer, mother of the comedian's 16-year-old bride, has departed from the big white house that Charlie built upon his "Magnetic Hill," domestic accord seems at last to have been established.

Lila and Charlie are happy, and there is no thought of a financial settlement," Mrs. Spicer said as she quit the couple for the first time since they were married in Guaymas, Mexico, last Thanksgiving week.

Edwin McMurray, Lila's uncle and attorney, has left for San Francisco, without making any additions to his statement that negotiations "of a personal and financial nature" were being undertaken with Chaplin.

As usual, when his personal affairs are being discussed, Chaplin is in seclusion. He is scheduled to appear in a Los Angeles court room tomorrow in attempts to restrain Charles Amador, who appears on the screen as Charles Aplin, from assuming the trick derby, cane and twitching moustache that were used first in Chaplin's comedies. So many delays have been granted in the action that it is doubtful whether the plaintiff will be in court.

Lila's expectancy of a Chaplin heir early this summer is believed to have been prominent in the settlement of whatever differences may have existed. Charlie will complete his new picture in a few weeks, and it is probable that the couple will then begin the travels which have been talked of, but never undertaken.

$57,913.80 GIVEN BY PRESBYTERIANS TO SEMINARY FUND

Writ Stays DooM OF YOUNG KILLERS FOR FOURTH TIME

Campaign Will Get In Full Swing Today. Workers Confident of Raising $250,000 Needed.

Pledges totalling $57,913.80 were turned in at a meeting at the Hotel Ansley Monday night by workers in the campaign to secure this city's quota of $250,000 of the $500,000 necessary to move the Columbia Theological seminary to Atlanta. Final plans for the campaign which will get in full swing today and last throughout the week, were made at the meeting which was attended by 331 workers representing all the Presbyterian churches in the city. Beginning Wednesday meetings will be held daily at the Ansley hotel and workers will report the progress being made in the campaign.

Names of the first contributors to the campaign were not announced Monday.

"This is the largest gathering of Presbyterian workers that has ever met in any of our Presbyterian campaigns for education," declared Dr. S. W. Gill, director of the campaign and field secretary of the general assembly's committee on education, in addressing the workers at the dinner on the Ansley roof garden. "It is a magnificent expression of your loyalty and your willingness to put forth your best efforts in this campaign to secure pledges for Atlanta's quota of the $500,000 needed to move the seminary from Columbia to Atlanta," he said.

Three Things Necessary.
"There are three things necessary to make this campaign successful," said Dr. McGill—"first, a good cause; second, a good organization; and third, regular attendance at the regular daily luncheons at 12:15 o'clock every day this week beginning Wednesday at which every worker is expected to be present whether he has anything to report or not."

Dr. McGill then exhibited a score-board, on which was printed the name of the "Dean" at the head of each team, with the names of the "Professors" No. 1 and the names of the "Students" working under his supervision, and the names of the "Professors" No. 2, with the names of the "Students" working under him. He then explained that reports from these teams would be chalked on the board each day at luncheon. The individual securing the largest total amount of money, either cash or subscription, will be awarded the "leading citizen" banner; the "professor" of the class report, the largest amount of money, and the individual reporting the largest number of separate benefactors or pledges for the one day, the "leading citizen" banner.

Dr. McGill spoke of the great need for a cooperative spirit, not inconsistent with the campaign.

JOHN MCCORMACK FORCED BY COLD TO CANCEL DATES

New Orleans, February 9.—With all engagements for the immediate future postponed until March because of illness, John McCormack, the tenor, will leave tomorrow for Miami, Fla., where he will spend about two weeks resting.

Mr. McCormack contracted a slight cold before his arrival here Saturday morning, which was aggravated by attending the races in the afternoon. This morning his physician advised him to postpone his engagements, as he was hoarse and his throat was inflamed.

Though his condition is now serious, singing will be impossible for several days.

Mr. McCormack stated he had originally planned to spend a short vacation in Florida in March, but would go now, filling his postponed February date in March. He was to have appeared in concert here tonight, but will fill the engagement on March 9.

GOVERNOR ORDERS PROBE OF PADDED PAYROLLS CHARGE

Warrant Ordered Sworn Out for J. B. Bereth; Officials Discuss Constitution's Disclosures.

DISCLOSURE PROVES SURPRISE TO NEEL

Full and Complete Audit of Highway Books Will Be Made at Once, Chief Executive States.

The Constitution's exposure, in an exclusive news story Sunday, of charges of padded payrolls at the East Point shops of the state highway department led to important developments Monday as follows:

Launching of a sweeping investigation of affairs of the state highway department in all its branches.

Disappearance of J. B. Bereth, paymaster at the East Point shops. Announcement by State Highway Engineer W. R. Neel that he had instructed Superintendent W. C. Messer, of the shops, to swear out a warrant for Bereth's arrest.

Statement of Governor Clifford Walker that he would promise the people a full and complete investigation of the affairs of the department by the state auditor and that all details of the investigation would be published following its conclusion.

Information furnished the state highway department by The Constitution, which had obtained it from F. J. Stokes, a timekeeper at the East Point shops, caused the investigation.

Governor Takes Part.
Governor Clifford Walker, head of the executive department, held a conference with Sam J. State, head of the auditing department, while a short time later Chairman Holder, Engineer Neel and members of the clerical department of the East Point shops met to discuss preliminary steps to ascertain the amounts involved in the alleged padded payrolls.

Officials of the highway department were awaiting Monday night a communication from Judge Stanley S. Bennett, of Quitman, member of the highway board, containing information assembled by Judge Bennett and Chairman John N. Holder and W. T. Anderson, members of the board, at two special sessions held Thursday and Friday. Judge Bennett has a list of the names of men on the payrolls alleged to have been paid salaries not due them or to have been overpaid. On receipt of this information H. G. Spahr, secretary of the board, will conduct preliminary checking of the pay rolls pending before

THE TWO
Dempsey and Bride Offered
PICTURE WILL REQUIRE ONLY FIVE WEEKS
$100,000 Movie Contract

BY H. O. THOMPSON.
Los Angeles, February 9.—Jack Dempsey and his bride of two days have been offered $100,000 for five weeks' work in a motion picture production and probably will accept the proposal within a few days.
If arrangements now contemplated are followed, the film will be started in about two weeks at one of Hollywood's largest studios. Estelle Taylor, who became the heavyweight champion's wife a few days ago, after a year's romance, is unencumbered by contracts and is anxious to go on with her movie career.
From a place of no particular prominence in the film world, Miss Taylor will be able to achieve a weekly income that rivals the earnings of Gloria Swanson, Tom Mix and other of the best-paid stars in the industry.
The United News learned of the offer and its probable acceptance Monday, from a reliable source close to Dempsey. The champion has worked in pictures before, but for no such sum as $100,000 a week.
It is not expected that Dempsey's activities will interfere with his proposed fight with Tom Gibbons this summer, as but five weeks are bargained for in the proffered contract.
The sum derived from his appearance before the camera, added to what he can make in one more fight, will make it possible for Dempsey to retire gracefully, a step he cannot take now because of the involved nature of his real estate holdings here.
Pending their decision on the enticing movie bid, Jack and Estelle are hunting a bungalow home in Hollywood. The actress has given up her apartment, and both have agreed that if she is to keep her two dogs, larger quarters than either have occupied would be necessary.

CHALLENGES GEORGIA

ASA G. CANDLER, JR.

Philanthropic Atlanta citizen who has offered through The Constitution to duplicate all subscriptions up to $50,000 on the $100,000 fund asked in Georgia toward the $1,000,000 which Adolph S. Ochs, publisher of The New York Times, offers to raise for the Berry schools.

$9,000 IS PLEDGED TO GEORGIA BERRY QUOTA

year, by dint of tremendous effort in collecting gifts and telling what her schools are doing for the mountaineer boys and girls of the southern Appalachians. The time is coming, it was declared, when Miss Berry will no longer be physically able to do this work, and it is in order to give the schools a permanent endowment which will provide the money she has collected in the past, that Mr. Ochs has undertaken the task of raising $1,000,000.

The 25th anniversary of the school comes in 1927 and Mr. Ochs, while in Atlanta last week, declared that he would raise this million in ample time to present it to Miss Berry and the schools before their first quarter centennial anniversary.

The New York publisher is now enjoying a short vacation in Florida. Following Mr. Candler's offer to provide half of the needed Georgia $100,000, it is the purpose of The Constitution, in undertaking the raising of the balance, to have the entire $100,000 subscribed and ready to take up Mr. Ochs' challenge when he returns to his office in New York. That this amount can be raised within a few days is a foregone conclusion. Georgians who know of Berry schools and the work they are doing have only to be asked, and they respond with handsome gifts. Others only need to be told, and they, likewise, will be proud to take part in the work.

Praises Work of Schools.
As stated by Mr. Ochs during his last week's visit to Atlanta, the work the Berry schools are doing is of importance equal at least to that of any other educational institution in the country. These schools take the illiterate, ignorant mountaineers and make them into trained, educated, upstanding citizens. Sprung from the finest stock on the American continent, direct descendants of the original Anglo-Saxon pioneer stock, they make, when taken out of the darkness of their isolated mountain cabin homes, the finest citizens of the republic. It is from the men and women educated in this institution, Mr. Ochs said, that the finest and greatest leaders of the nation in the next generation are to come. Therefore, he added, the man who helps these schools in their splendid work is doing more for the betterment of America, is better advancing the highest fogs of patriotism, than he could in any other way.

PRIMITIVE GEORGIANS TRAINED AT BERRY

exuberance of boyhood draw him beyond normal parental control. The wildness of these boys was like the wildness of the animals, the untamed beasts of their native haunts.

Sends for Boys.
Miss Martha Berry, founder, head and inspiration of the Berry schools, heard the stories. She sent her assistants back into the mountains, to find those two boys and see how true the stories were, and how much chance there was of redemption for the boys.

The searching party found their quarry. One day, working their way through the mountain forests, they surprised the two boys at work. Working? Yes, at the only kind of work they knew anything about. They were running a moonshine still, rebuilt from the remnants of their father's stills, which the raiding of ficers had smashed.

As the Berry school's party approached, the two boys ran, like young frightened deer. They were practically naked, living there alone, as the fox lives in his kennel, the rabbit in his burrow, and the wren in his lair. One boy ran into the woods, but the other burrowed, whimpering, beneath the cabin that was the only home they knew.

Finally the Berry party caught them and, after infinite patience, calmed their fears.

The boys were brought to Berry schools, that Anglo-Saxon blood have a chance; that white, native American blood might be educated to live as white, native Americans ought to live.

That was three years before our visit to Berry. The two boys were the one who had baked bread to win the admiration of famous women cooks, and the youngster who led his companions in their scripture reading and evening prayer.

Hundreds Given Chance.
That is, literally, a true story. At Berry schools there are 650 boys and girls—some of them, in fact, men and women—who come from pitiful mountain homes. They come illiterate, dirty, unkempt and almost without trace of civilization. It is a fact that many of the savages of dark est Africa live under better conditions than do some of the mountaineers. Georgians, splendid though their original stock may be.

It is these people that Miss Martha Berry, through the schools she has established is reaching. It is from material such as this—not all, of course, as unpromising, but all in dire need—that she is building the magnificent men and women citizens her schools are giving to the world.
There are two distinct schools at Berry. The one, where we saw the brothers whose story is given above, is the grammar school. Here are taken the students, of all ages, who must begin at the bottom, must study their alphabets, their three "R's" of rudimentary education.
Then, on the front of the land, is the high school, where the students who have passed through the grammar grades, are given a high school education, together with practical training in agriculture, in dairying, in mechanics and in domestic arts, so that they may go into the world fully equipped men and women to perform the duties life may demand of them.

Asked to Give $50,000.
It is for these schools that Georgians are today asked to subscribe $50,000. On the giving of this $50,000 depends an endowment of $1,000,000. For Adolph Ochs, New York Times publisher, has pledged himself to raise the $1,000,000. He has asked Georgians to subscribe one-tenth, or $100,000. And Asa Candler, Jr., has promised $50,000 of that $100,000, provided other Georgians will give the other half.

For every $1—$20 goes to the schools. Goes to the schools where the finest work a woman ever dreamed is coming true, where Georgia's children whose ancestry gives them the finest potentialities for good, are being equipped to take their rightful place in the world.

There should be no hesitation. Already, in one day, one-fifth of the amount required—$10,000 of the $50,000—has been pledged. Payments may be made in four installments, at six month intervals. Today, as the call from Berry goes across the state, the response will begin. Subscriptions of $25, $50, $100, $500, $1,000, any amount, are asked. They will be promptly acknowledged and, beyond doubt, within the next day or two the news will be sent out: "Georgia has answered. The task is more than done."

the juncture of La France street and the Georgia railroad tracks from a residence to industrial district was granted, as was a petition to change several lots on West Peachtree street between Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets, from an apartment house to business district.
It was announced Monday that new names for 12 streets, names of which now are said to be duplicated, together with a new system for house numbering in Atlanta, will be considered this week at a meeting of a subcommittee of the commission, composed of Mr. Atchison and Frank E. Newman. The new names will be completed in time for presentation at the next meeting of council, but a considerable length of time probably will be required for the renumbering proposition.

KING GASPARILLA AGAIN TAKES TAMPA

Tampa, Fla., February 9.—King Gasparilla XVI and his pirate crew sailed up Hillsborough river at noon today with cannons roaring and went through the annual ceremony of capturing the city. The Gasparilla parade followed, including many decorated floats. The coronation of the new king and queen, whose identity is kept secret, is to take place at the grand ball tomorrow night.

$1,200,000 ALLOTTED FOR TOKIO EMBASSY

Washington, February 9.—Appropriation of $1,200,000 for a new American embassy at Tokio, to replace the one destroyed in the earthquake, was approved today by the senate foreign relations committee over the opposition of both Chairman Borah and Senator Swanson, of Virginia, the ranking democrat.

ATTENTION Poultry Raisers

Use Sulphur to Make Your Flock Profitable

A large poultry raiser of Texas wrote an article which recently appeared in one of the leading poultry journals. He told the secret of how he keeps his flock healthy, thrifty, free of all vermin and poultry diseases and positively rids them of all parasites such as lice, mites, blue-bugs, stickle fleas and other blood-sucking insects. The secret remedy is sulphur. But, since this chemical is practically insoluble under ordinary conditions and many poultry raisers claim that it sometimes causes fowls to contract rheumatism, an easier and safer method to give sulphur has been found. A well known druggist, who is a great poultry fancier, has discovered a way to obtain a CONCENTRATED solution of Sulphur, to which several other ingredients are then added. This makes a wonderful poultry remedy which can simply be added to the drinking water. This wonderful new discovery is called "2-in-1" LICE AND MITE REMOVER. It is put up in large four-ounce bottles—each bottle contains enough to last the average flock all season. You can now rid your poultry of ALL parasites by simply getting a bottle of "2-in-1" LICE AND MITE REMOVER and adding it to the poultry's drinking water for a few days as directed on the bottle. It is sold by all drug stores, grocery stores and feed and seed stores under an ABSOLUTE MONEY-BACK GUARANTEE for $1.00 a bottle or six bottles for five dollars. Get a bottle at once—use it thirty days and your poultry will appear to take on new vitality, the fowls' plumage will become brighter and their combs redder, they positively will be free of all parasites and your hens will lay more eggs for you—hens infested with insects seldom lay. You run no risk, your money will be cheerfully refunded if you are not satisfied in every way. Accept no substitute—Get the genuine "2-in-1". If your dealer hasn't it in stock, write to the "2-in-1" LICE AND MITE REMOVER SUPPLY COMPANY, 705 Central Street, Kansas City, Missouri.

FOUR ARE INJURED IN AUTO COLLISION

Four persons were injured—two seriously—late Monday night when a light truck and a touring car collided head-on at the intersection of East Fair street and the Belt Line railroad. The injured are: H. H. Pierce, 1201 East Fair street, broken leg and severe body cuts and bruises, perhaps internally hurt. Mrs. Pierce, knee out of joint, shoulder dislocated, body bruised. G. W. Huff, 1201 East Fair street, severely cut and bruised. W. H. Moon, 71 South Clifton street, Kirkwood, body bruises. Mr. and Mrs. Pierce and Huff were riding in the truck, according to the report made to police and hospital attendants later. Moon was driving the touring car. The accident was not clearly explained to authorities, but a charge of reckless driving was preferred against Moon.

All of the four persons were taken to Grady hospital after the accident and later an investigation was begun by Call Officers G. E. Williams and G. B. Lee, who preferred the charge against Moon.

HUSBAND AND WIFE, NOTED PHYSICIANS, MAY GET HONORS

Chicago, February 9.—Dr. George F. Dick and his wife, Dr. Gladys H. Dick, of Chicago, have been recommended for the noble prize in medicine by the Gorgas Memorial Institute of Tropical and Preventive Medicine. The recommendation made public Monday is based on the achievement of the physicians in developing a serum to fight scarlet fever.

The following specific accomplishments are credited to them in connection with their research work: the development of a skin test for susceptibility to scarlet fever, a preventive immunization method and an antitoxin for the cure of scarlet fever.

Thirteen years of research work were required in developing the antitoxin, and plans for the serum are pouring into the institute here from all parts of the world.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchitis, catarrh, bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. (Invt.)

Coughs Always Dangerous—Quick Way to Stop Them

Chronic coughs and chest colds often lead to more serious trouble. Not only is the infection itself dangerous, but the continued coughing spells at night so weaken your entire system that you can no longer fight off disease.

So stop a cough the quickest way you can. To do this there is nothing better than that old-time tried and proved remedy—Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey. Doctors say there is nothing like pine-tar extract to quickly loosen and remove the phlegm and congestion which are the direct cause of the cough, while the honey gives a pleasant taste and helps soothe irritation. The quick relief to the stubborn cough often seems almost magical.

But be sure you get the genuine Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey, and no substitute. Dr. Bell's is the original pine-tar honey and has been known for over a century as the best. It is scientifically compounded of just the right proportions of pine-tar and other quick-acting, healing ingredients which the best doctors have found to aid in quick relief. Contains no opiates or other harmful drugs, so can be given even to young children—for spasmodic cough. If you want the best, a medicine that often cures the severest cough overnight, make sure you get Dr. Bell's. Only 50c at any good druggist.

Rotorship, Driven by Wind, Scores Victory Over Steamer

AUXILIARY ENGINES WERE USED, HOWEVER

The Buckau, vessel invented by Anton Flettner, equipped with revolving cylinders which harness natural air currents and take the place of sails. Wind drawn into the steel masts drives motors which supply power to the propellers. The Buckau is scheduled to be brought to the United States.

BY JAMES B. WHARTON.
(Special Correspondent of The Constitution and The North American Newspaper Alliance.)

Holtenau, Germany, February 9.—Wallowing through heavy seas and harassed by head-on winds, Anton Flettner's fantastic rotorship has scored its first victory over steam power.

It was learned today that the Buckau arrived at Holtenau yesterday from Danzig, five hours ahead of the twin screw steamer Tondom, which left Danzig at the same time. The test, which was the first real trial of the seaworthiness and fuel-economy of the rotorship, was a demonstration, not the superior performance of rotor equipment alone, but the efficiency of combined rotors and power, as the Buckau was compelled to use its auxiliary engines.

Officials of the Germania Werft, constructors of the Buckau, said today they were thoroughly satisfied with the performance of the rotorship on her three days' voyage. The ship is being overhauled today and will proceed tomorrow through the Kiel canal, and across the North Sea to Scotland.

Its economic value remains to be determined, it is said, as but half the cargo voyage has been made and the data is not sufficient to justify a conclusion as to actual efficiency. The fuel economy of the rotorship is calculated over a wide range to be from 17 to 80 per cent. When auxiliary power is used only the minimum saving is achieved. Without auxiliary power, the maximum is achieved, the remaining 20 per cent being used to turn the rotors.

During the voyage from Danzig, it was necessary to use the auxiliary motor virtually during the entire voyage, due to the foul weather. If fair weather is met in the North sea, it is hoped the voyage may be made without auxiliary power. However, no unnecessary facts will be taken to achieve this purpose.

Although no definite contracts have been made with the Germania Werft for the construction of other ships, as previously reported, the company, which is a subsidiary of the Krupp concern, is planning on under the construction of two, four, six and eight-thousand-ton rotorships, with rotors twice the size of those of the Buckau, and five times their height. The Buckau's rotors are about 10 feet thick and 50 feet high.

Fisk President Standing Firmly Against Strikers

Nashville, Tenn., February 9.—Dr. F. A. McKenzie, president of Fisk university, a negro institution, said today that, even if the number of students at the university gets as low as ten, the classes will be conducted as usual. His statement concerned a strike of students recently following a demonstration against the college regulations.

"While, of course, we regret the strike and the unfortunate incidents leading up to it, we cannot and will not let it interfere with the purposes of the school," asserted Dr. McKenzie. The college president said that quite a number of students had been injured to their homes and that others planned to go, but that classes were continuing in spite of tremendous pressure and considerable intimidation.

Dr. McKenzie had previously let it become known that members of the student body desiring to be readmitted would be allowed the privilege. A communication was addressed to the negro board of trade, Nashville, late today by Dr. McKenzie, proposing that the matters under dispute concerning his administration at the college be submitted to review by a committee of 18—six members to be named by the chamber of commerce, six by the board of trade, and three each from the white and negro educational institutions of Nashville.

Proposals to arbitrate with the students were turned down by Dr. McKenzie two days ago. The faculty of the institution for training negroes is made up largely of white instructors.

Information was received here tonight from New York that Hollingsworth Wood, chairman of the board of trustees of Fisk University, was leaving tonight for Nashville for a meeting of the board.

City Officials Witness 122d Regimental Parade

Major Walter A. Sims and a group of members of city council augmented by a representative number of private citizens, witnessed the regimental parade Monday night of the 122d infantry, "Atlanta's Own," at the Auditorium-Armory. All Atlanta units of the organization were arrayed in regular formation in the auditorium and the big building took on all the atmosphere of early days in 1917 when other Atlanta units were preparing to entrain for various army camps.

A brief meeting of officers, as is the usual custom, was held prior to the parade, when announcement was made by Colonel Charles H. Cox, commanding officer, that regimental parades would be held in the army semi-monthly. The public will be invited to attend and to observe the program of the state's newest national guard outfit. Approximately 600 Atlanta youths are enrolled, many of whom have had previous military experience, while a majority have had training in military units in local high schools. Officers of the regiment have been selected from among those Atlantans who saw active service as officers in the late war and who are "carrying on" in peace times through a desire to aid younger men to prepare themselves for any eventuality of a war-like tendency.

City officials were greatly impressed with the precision and military bearing of units in the parade Monday night. A number of reserve officers also "looked in" and added their comment, while civilians were outspoken in their praises of the regiment's training during its existence of less than one year.

The next parade will be held on Monday night, two weeks hence, and arrangements have been made in seat those who desire to attend. All the form of a regulation parade is zone through and visitors no doubt will enjoy it.

When his jailers told him what had happened in the court room, Bessemer, Ala., February 9.—Dr. George T. Edwards, charged with slaying his wife, was allowed $10,000 bond by Judge J. C. B. Gwin here today, but the state immediately appealed from the action of Judge Gwin. As a result Dr. Edwards will be forced to remain in jail until the supreme court passes on the question of bail.

Dr. Edwards was tried a week ago in circuit court here, but the jury was discharged on failure to reach a verdict. The jurors stood 11 to 1 for acquittal. The physician has been confined in jail since his wife's murder on December 2.

The state has 30 days in which to perfect its appeal and about two weeks will be consumed by the supreme court in rendering a decision. With this delay, Dr. Edwards cannot enjoy many days' freedom before the second trial, tentatively set for March 23.

"I want to thank Judge Gwin for his action," was Edwards' only statement.

Hartford, Conn., February 9.—State's Attorney Alcorn today declined to disclose the identity of a woman said to live in Providence, R. I., who is understood to have given financial aid to Gerald Chapman, while the bandit was at large. The woman will testify next month at Chapman's trial here for the murder of a New Britain policeman. It is stated, Chapman is in the Connecticut state prison, having been brought from Atlanta after his recent arrest in Muncie, Ind.

FAMILY CLAIM MURDER IN GEORGIAN'S DEATH

Athens, Ga., February 9.—(Special.)—The body of Elmer Miller, 27, fatally shot in Greenwood, S. C., Sunday morning by Alvis Carr, arrived here for burial this afternoon.

Members of Miller's family, who went to Greenwood or who were with him when the fatal shooting took place, state that he was "murdered in cold blood," and that after the shooting Carr said, "I have killed the wrong man."

Miller was married, and his wife and her brother and wife were with him on the Carolina visit.

All But Three Districts Have Completed Details For Oratorical Contests

Arrangements in Remaining Three Districts Will Be Announced in Next Few Days.

All arrangements for the holding of the district oratorical contests have been completed in nine out of the twelve districts in Georgia. The remaining three will have completed their plans within the next few days, now being within that every one of the twelve districts will take part in the contest, staged in this state by The Constitution and the State High School association and nationally by the American Bar association.

As previously announced, the first elimination contest will be held in the high schools themselves, each school selecting, on or before March 24, the boy or girl student who is to carry its banner in the further elimination tests.

The school winners will then take part in their district contests, which are to be held either on April 9 or 10. For each of the twelve district winners there will be a prize of $15 in gold, offered by The Constitution.

State Funds Here.
Then, on April 24, the winners in the twelve district meets will come to Atlanta for the state finals, to be held with Governor Clifford Walker presiding. The first winner in this contest will get $100 in gold and the second $20, both prizes given by The Constitution.

The state winner will then go to Nashville, to compete with winners from five other states for the zone championship. Other states in this, the fourth zone, are Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Alabama and Tennessee.

The country is divided into seven zones, and the seven winners will go to Washington, D. C., on May 7 to take part in the national finals before President Coolidge. Each of these seven will get a prize, the prizes in the national contest being seven in number, as follows: First, $2,000; second, $1,000; third, $500; fourth, $450; fifth, $400; sixth, $350; seventh, $300.

CONKLIN TIN PLATE COMPANY TO ERECT $60,000 STRUCTURE

Plans for a new plant for the Conklin Tin Plate company were made public Monday when a permit was issued by City Building Inspector C. J. Bowen. The factory, which will be located at 10-12 South Main street, will be a three-story reinforced concrete and brick structure, and will cost $60,000. E. C. Wachendorf is architect, and the Southern Ferro Construction company contractor.

shows that the contests will be held in the following cities:

First district, Waynesboro; second, Blakely; third, Cordell; fourth, Monticello; fifth, undecided; sixth, Monticello; seventh, Cedarhurst; eighth, undecided; ninth, undecided; tenth, Warrenton; eleventh, Cecilia twelfth, Vidalia.

In the three undecided cases the final location awaits choice between several towns, which are anxious for the meet to be staged with them.

The orations to be delivered in this contest must be original, and must not take over 10 minutes to deliver. They may be on any one of eight subjects: The Federal Constitution; Washington and the Constitution; Jefferson and the Constitution; Hamilton and the Constitution; Madison and the Constitution; Marshall and the Constitution; Webster and the Constitution; Lincoln and the Constitution.

Any bona fide high-school student, boy or girl, is eligible to compete, provided they were not over 19 years of age on February 1, 1925.

Chances of Georgians.

J. S. Stewart, president of the State High School association, speaking of the chances of Georgia boys and girls in this contest Monday, said: "If the Georgia contestants work hard enough, one or two ought to at least go to Washington for the national finals. In the zone finals, we are competing with high-school students from Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Alabama and Tennessee. Worried competitors, indeed, but hard work can win."

PHILADELPHIA MAYOR TO ADDRESS ROTARY

Mayor Freeland Kendrick, of Philadelphia, is spending a few days at the Baltimore hotel on his way home from Mobile, Ala., where he has been attending a Shrine directors' association meeting, at which he was one of the principal figures. He is accompanied by his wife.

While in Atlanta he will be extensively entertained. He will be the guest of Atlanta Rotary club at a luncheon today at 12:30 o'clock, at which will be a brief address. During the morning he will take part in golf match. In the afternoon he and his wife will be taken on a trip to Stone Mountain where they will view progress of the work of the Confederate memorial.

Mayor Kendrick is an outstanding leader of the Shrine and in 1923 was elected Imperial Potentate. During his administration he made a great record and sponsored many movements, the best known being the Shrine Hospitals for Crippled Children. He has given much of his time to establishment of hospitals all over the country.

Seven large hospitals have been completed. They are capable of caring for 2,000 patients a year, it is stated.

Mayor Kendrick came into the limelight about two years ago when he borrowed $25,000 will be sufficient to pay the government to lease the Philadelphia police force.

FUNDS FOUND TO PAY 25 NEW PATROLMEN

Funds for 25 additional patrolmen will be provided in an amendment to the January appropriation sheet to be presented at the next meeting of council, it was announced Monday following a conference between Mayor Walter A. Sims and Alderman W. B. Duvall, chairman of the finance committee. The money will be obtained by cutting several appropriations, and no new funds will be anticipated.

If the amendment is passed by council, the new members will be added to the force immediately, and probably will be placed on night duty in residential sections. It is estimated that $25,000 will be sufficient to pay the additional officers during the remainder of the year.

Chief of Police E. L. Jett, with Councilman Ed H. Inman, chairman of the police committee, asked for 50 new policemen, stating that the present force would be unable to cope with the situation. Mayor Sims also favored a larger force, and last week requested Dr. Duvall to attempt to find funds for addition of 25 patrolmen.

VAN PAASSEN GUEST OF HONOR AT DINNER

New York, February 9.—(Special.) Pierre Van Paassen, of the editorial staff of The Atlanta Constitution, was the guest of honor at a dinner Saturday evening at the Hotel Richelieu.

Martin Cottrell, New York correspondent of the Paris Matin, made a short address and Maurice Samuel, author of "You Gentiles," acted as chairman.

Samuel Untermyer, one of the most distinguished lawyers of New York, presided earlier in the week at a meeting at which Mr. Van Paassen was the principal speaker.

After an address at Baltimore, Mr. Van Paassen will return to Atlanta for the lecture tour that has carried him to the principal cities of the east.

STREET CAR REVENUE SHOWS BIG DECREASE

Revenue of the street railway system in Atlanta has decreased in the last seven months more than $240,000, according to figures made public Monday by the Georgia Railway and Power company. For the month of January, 1925, the receipts of the system amounted to $10,200.92 less than for the same month in 1924.

The reduction in receipts is attributed by the company to the operation of jitneys and other motor bus companies. Recently city council passed an ordinance prohibiting jitneys from operating in opposition to street cars. The ordinance becomes effective in about two weeks.

The decrease of nearly a quarter of a million dollars in seven months marks the heaviest amounts ever recorded by the company in this period.

MASS MEETING WILL BE HELD BY METHODISTS

Judge S. Price Gilbert, of the supreme court of Georgia, and Judge John D. Barber, of the Fulton county superior court, lay leaders, respectively, of the North Atlanta and South Atlanta districts of Methodist churches are planning a great mass meeting of Methodist laymen, to be held at Wesley Memorial church during the afternoon of February 22.

Associated with Judges Gilbert and Humphries in working out the program are Rev. W. L. Pierce and Dr. W. T. Hummel, presiding elders, respectively, of the two districts of the Methodist churches. Judge W. B. Hollingsworth and W. I. Bennett, associate lay leaders, are also contributing their efforts in the preliminary arrangements.

Judges Gilbert and Humphries desire to put into operation some kind of program that will bring into play the unusual lay powers of the Methodist church, and believe that such an assemblage as is contemplated for February 22 will go far towards achieving the desired results. With this motive in mind they plan to bring together for a conference the more than 3,000 lay leaders of the Methodist churches of the city.

SPRINGLIKE DAY PROMISED CITY BY FORECASTER

Return of the delightful weather of the past few days is predicted by Forecaster C. F. von Herrmann, following the rains of Monday morning. Temperatures will be slightly lower than those of Sunday and Monday, but there will not be much change in conditions generally, and on the whole today will be a repetition of the delightful springlike days that Atlantans have enjoyed recently.

Sunday showed a high temperature of 71.4 degrees and similar conditions were reported from all parts of the south and southeast.

Convict's Double Sent to Prison; Lee To Be Freed

Sentence of three and one-half years in the penitentiary was meted out by Judge Robert T. Erwin in United States district court Monday afternoon to Will E. Barrett, who was arrested recently in Nashville and confessed to robbing the postoffice at Prior, Ga. His confession cleared the name of Hugh L. Lee, Barrett's "double," who is serving a five-year sentence at the penitentiary for the crime Barrett committed.

The crime was committed in August, 1923, and Barrett, confessing before Judge Erwin, said that he did not know that Lee was serving time for his crime, and that when he learned of it in Nashville he immediately asked that he be brought back here so that the innocent man might be released.

Lee was arrested in Virginia and identified by eight witnesses as the one who held up and robbed the postmaster at Prior. He bears a striking resemblance to Barrett, both being the same size, both having a mole on their face and both having gold teeth.

Judge Erwin said that he was making the sentence light in view of the fact that Barrett had confessed voluntarily and returned to be sentenced. Lee will be released, it was said, as soon as orders are received from Washington.

W. & A. COURT FIGHT SET FOR WEDNESDAY

Arguments in opposition to the passage of a bill in the Tennessee legislature giving the city of Chattanooga the right to condemn certain properties owned by the state of Georgia in that city will be made Wednesday before a special committee of the Tennessee state senate at Nashville. An Attorney General George Napier and Paul M. Trammell, chairman of the state public service commission, representing the state of Georgia, will present arguments.

The Georgia officials will present arguments against the passage of the bill in an effort to preserve the state's rights in the property which is now leased to the city of Chattanooga and St. Louis railroad. The move in the Tennessee senate is a part of a plan under which the city of Chattanooga hopes to obtain the right to open Broad street and other business streets in that city now blocked by the terminals of the railroad.

Another phase of the movement is the preparation of the attorney general of Tennessee of quo warranto writs seeking to throw several blocks of the property into a receivership on the ground the state of Georgia has leased the property for other than the purposes for which it was leased.

For several years the city of Chattanooga has waged a fight to open Broad street through the terminal property. The litigation has been carried once to the United States supreme court.

Sanitary Committee To Name Successor To Jackson Today

The sanitary committee of city council this afternoon will elect a clerk for the sanitary department to fill the position made vacant by the dismissal of C. P. Jackson, whose discharge was ordered Monday by Mayor Walter A. Sims after it had been brought to his attention that Jackson was $122 short that he has carried him to the principal cities of the east.

Sanitation was one of the oldest city employees in point of service, and was a candidate for mayor three years ago.

WESLEYAN PAPER NAMES ATLANTAN AS EMORY 'SHEIK'

Emory University, Ga., February 9. (Special.)—Thomas Irvin Willingham of Atlanta has been selected as the handsomest man at Emory in a contest sponsored by the Varsity, Wesleyan college's annual, and his picture is to occupy a full page in that publication, according to an announcement received here by Henry B. Scott, editor of the Emory Wheel.

The selection was made from the photographs of four of Emory's best looking men, chosen in a contest conducted by the Wheel, the weekly newspaper published by the Emory student body, and sent to Wesleyan for the final selection.

Willingham, who is a senior in the school of medicine, is a member of the Phi Kappa Alpha fraternity and is widely known in Atlanta's social realm. The other Emory students whose pictures were submitted by the Wheel were Godfrey Trammel, member of the Chi Phi fraternity, William Wilkerson, Sigma Chi, and Robert Dopen, Delta Tau Delta.

SIMPLE HOME MIXTURE DARKENS GRAY HAIR

Cincinnati Barber Tells How Any One Can Prepare It in 5 Minutes.

Any man or woman can easily look twenty years younger by simply darkening their gray, faded, or streaky hair. This is now easy to accomplish with a recipe given by a well-known Cincinnati barber.

Simply take a half-pint of water, add one ounce of bay rum, 3/4 ounce of glycerine and a small box of Barbo Compound. Shake and it is ready to use. These ingredients can be bought at drug stores at trifling cost.

Applied to the hair twice weekly the desired shade. It is easy to use, is not sticky or greasy, will not color the scalp and does not rub off.—(adv.)

SCHOOL COMMISSION TO INSPECT BUILDINGS

Members of the commission of 33 Atlantans, named by John T. Hancock, president of the board of education, to investigate needs of the city's schools, Thursday will make an inspection tour of six buildings preparatory to a meeting set for four o'clock Friday afternoon.

Chairman Paul H. Norcross Monday stated that committees will be announced Friday, and that the investigation will proceed as rapidly as possible. Committees will be named on policies, duties of which will be to determine the most feasible type of school control, school population, necessary housing facilities; financing of new buildings and present school costs and expenditures.

The commission will leave city hall at nine o'clock Thursday morning. The following itinerary will be followed: 9:15, Davis street school, Davis and Simpson streets; 9:45, O'Keefe junior high school, Sixth street and Techwood drive; 10:15, Spring street school, Spring and Seventeenth streets; 11:00, Henry W. Grady, senior high school for boys, North Jackson and Eighth streets; 11:30, Highland school, North and Highland avenues; 12:00, William A. Bass junior high school, Euclid and Washita avenues.

Maybe your teeth are gloriously clear, simply clouded with a film coat. Make this remarkable test and find out.

Just run your tongue across your teeth

You'll feel a film—that's what makes your teeth look "off color" and invites decay and gum troubles

Old methods fail to remove it successfully. Beneath it are the dazzling white teeth you envy. Make this remarkable dental test—you may have beautiful teeth and not realize it.

THE test that's offered here has been made by thousands with remarkable results. Authorities pronounce it the most unique of all dental methods.

You want clear, beautiful teeth. You can have them—quickly. For this new way tests the basis of "off color" teeth, the source of most tooth and gum troubles.

In a few years, largely on dental advice, it has changed the tooth cleaning habits of the world. In justice to yourself, use the coupon below.

It removes that stubborn film, the great enemy of teeth and gums. Run your tongue across your teeth, and you will feel a film... a vicious coat that covers them.

That film is an enemy to your teeth—and your gums. You must remove it. It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. It absorbs discolorations and gives your teeth that cloudy "off color" look. Germs by the millions breed in it, and they, with tartar, are a chief cause of pyorrhea.

HOW TO GAIN ALL:—Seek ye first the kingdom of God and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you. Matthew 6:33.

A WONDERFUL START.
The raising of Georgia's quota of the $1,000,000 fund for the Berry school had a wonderful beginning Monday when more than $9,000 was raised by donations of Atlanta citizens.

Adolph S. Ochs, publisher of The New York Times, when motoring from Chattanooga to Atlanta the other day stopped at Rome and visited this school.

He was shown through its various departments, the shops, farm, breeding pastures, and saw the boys and girls, most of them salvaged from poor mountain homes, being trained for useful vocations.

He was so impressed with the institution, and with its greater opportunities, that he announced in Atlanta he would raise $900,000 outside of Georgia, if Georgia would raise $100,000, the total of $1,000,000 to be given the school on its 25th anniversary in 1927.

Immediately following Mr. Ochs' announcement Asa Candler, Jr., noted for his generous benefactions, announced that he would match up to $500,000 every dollar raised in Georgia.

This gives to all other Georgians, therefore, a "twenty-to-one" shot in providing the million-dollar gift for this worthy school.

Robert C. Alston, prominent Atlanta attorney, promptly announced a gift of $10,000, and later H. M. Atkinson donated $4,000—then the tide came with a rush at the organization meeting and the sum was run up to more than $9,000, or practically one-fifth of what Georgia must raise in addition to the magnificent offer of Mr. Candler.

There should be no time lost in raising the remainder of the state's quota and citizens from every section should quickly and heartily respond.

This is not an Atlanta-confined benefaction. The Berry school is a nation-wide institution that has never had the support from its home state it deserved.

Miss Berry has trudged the north and east for years begging support, and has made the school nationally known.

Berry graduates are in demand for vocational services because of the thoroughness of the training.

Hundreds of Georgia men and women today in the schools, hospitals, business, and in all lines of agriculture, live stock growing, and in industry, are holding positions of honor and trust who were, as children, brought to the schools from environments of the most pronounced poverty and illiteracy.

Now it is Georgia's time, with an opportunity that is exceptional, to do a worthy part by this school. And Georgia will meet the opportunity.

an appeal that was almost irresistible, and had a vigor of style that was equaled only by his versatility. He was a strong believer in the human interest story applied to advertising, and his great following for years was held more by the strength of his pen than by the soundness of his investment judgment.

In his long and checkered career he performed some outstanding services for the benefit of mankind, and did much toward exposing the "tricks" of trade gambling.

THE SEMINARY DRIVE.
Atlanta does big things in a big way. The response to the appeal of leading citizens of all denominations for the $250,000 quota necessary to bring the Columbia Presbyterian Theological seminary to Atlanta should be, and no doubt will be, quick and decisive.

The campaign has been launched along highly organized and most efficient lines. It began under most favorable auspices with a dinner Monday evening attended by several hundred people.

Atlanta is an outstanding educational and cultural center, and every institution that has for its purpose the training of men and women for lives of usefulness, in the professions, trades or business vocations, deserves the support and encouragement of all the people.

The Presbyterian institution now sought will be a notable addition to the educational life of the city, and one that will reflect great credit upon the city. It is doubtful if there is an institution in the city of Louisville that has contributed half so much to the welfare of that city and that has carried the name of the city to more places or greater distances than the Baptist Theological seminary of that city.

And thus it will be with the grand old Presbyterian Theological seminary in Atlanta.

The required fund should be speedily raised.

ROOSEVELT CALLS HAND.
Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, democratic candidate for vice president in 1920, and a conspicuous figure in the 1924 New York convention, gave expression to a wise and most pertinent political thought in Savannah Tuesday during a temporary stop-over in that city. He is quoted by The Press as saying:

"If in the next three years we stop wasting time in boomerang opposition to this man or that for a nomination four years away, and devote ourselves instead for organizing for party principles, for the taking advantage of our opponents' errors and omissions, and for presenting our own logical and progressive program, we shall gain the confidence of the country; and find it far easier to choose a representative and successful ticket when the time comes."

That is the unvarnished truth. Scarcely had the echoes of a republican victory faded out of the election noise in November before democratic "leaders" here and there began to organize groups looking to the "reorganization" of the party for the benefit of this and that candidate in 1928.

Offices were set up and propaganda, under some kind of an associated name, sent out in less than six weeks after the election, the purpose being to combine the radical element in the democratic party with the La Follette-led "progressives"—the same designed to merge the democratic party and the bankrupt La Follette "party" under the banner of La Folletteism by another name.

This scheme failed to get the response it desired.

Thereupon began a semi-organized movement to "reorganize" the democratic party by a coalition between the south and the west, leaving the eastern democrats, who would not take kindly to such an alliance, to scamp for shelter wherever they might elect.

Several newspapers in the south, by "chance," favored this alliance with long editorials appearing approximately at the same time, each of such editorials conveying the same alleged reasons why such an alliance should be made.

To any half-trained observer of political affairs the purpose of all of this was too obvious to disguise, even with a pretended altruistic party motive.

The democratic party is no sectional affair. It is one of the oldest of the two major parties, and stands—or ought to stand—for a definite code of principles.

It was founded upon principles that are sacred to the fundamentals of our system of government. However desperate may have been the attempts at times to swerve it away from some of these principles, the party invariably swings back to its traditional moorings.

As a great national party, therefore, its future depends upon its adherence to the tenets of its ancient faith, and not upon serving selfish political ends by combinations of groups, and of sections, against other groups and sections.

Mr. Roosevelt is correct. If the doctors and nurses who are trying to "condition" certain prospective candidates would turn their best efforts unselfishly to helping unite a great party following behind the tested and proven principles upon which it was founded, there would be less rainbow and will-o'-the-wisp chasing, and more constructive work accomplished for a party election victory, rather than for some personal convention victory in 1928.

ICE MEN OF GEORGIA WILL CONVENE TODAY

The sixth annual convention of the Georgia Ice Manufacturers' association will assemble at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon in the ballroom of the Hotel Grady hotel. This convention will bring here the leading men connected with manufacture of ice and refrigeration in the state.

This morning will be given over to registration of delegates on the mezzanine floor of the hotel, with John W. Yopp, the secretary-treasurer, in charge.

The annual session this year will be brief and purely routine in character, since the meeting will merge into that of the Southern Ice exchange, which convenes at the Henry Grady Wednesday for a two days' session.

Proceedings will be opened with an invocation by Dr. S. R. Bell, pastor of the Grace Methodist church. Then will follow the president's address, delivered by Gordon Burnett, of Atlanta; report of the secretary-treasurer, and an address by F. G. Rose, of Wilmington, N. C., a director of the National Association of Ice Industries. After discussion relating to the problems of the industry and appointment of committees, the meeting will adjourn to reconvene with the Southern Ice exchange.

Practically all the delegates to the meeting of the Southern Ice exchange are expected to arrive today.

Europe's Trial Balloons for Peace

BY JAMES T. SHOTWELL,
Historian of the Great War and Student of Foreign Affairs.

(The recent speeches of the president and of the premier of France emphasized the question of French security as the outstanding factor in international politics today. In this editorial, Dr. Shotwell gives a frank estimate of the means under consideration for settling it.)

In recent cables from Europe there is repeated mention of the possibility of a peace pact guaranteeing France and Belgium.

which the present conservative government of England would be asked to consider as a substitute for the Geneva protocol of last September.

These cables should not be taken too seriously for they are rather the expression of a pious hope than of practical politics, for even the conservative government of Britain will find it hard to command sufficient British public opinion to bind that country to what would be substantially a treaty of alliance with France.

The Geneva protocol of last September, which was amended so as to leave Britain somewhat more free than the original text—would be more in harmony with the trend of British opinion.

But still more interesting is the suggestion that Germany might join with France and Britain in the general guarantee of European peace. This suggestion has more in it. It revives memories of a suggestion which emanated from Berlin in the winter of 1922 when Chancellor Cuno proposed a peace pact with France which would guarantee the safety of the French frontiers. The German offer was rejected at the time by the government of Monsieur Poincare, partly owing to the fact that Germany was unwilling to guarantee the frontiers of France's allies and that there-

HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

PNEUMONIA IS NOW QUARANTINEABLE in the District of Columbia. Regulations promulgated by the commissioners of the district require that every case of pneumonia be reported within 24 hours, the patient isolated from all other persons who are not suffering from the same disease or necessarily in attendance on the patient, and on the termination of quarantine the thorough cleaning and airing of the sick room and the renovation of all woodwork before the room is again used. A fine of from 10 to 40 dollars is to be collected from anyone who violates these regulations.

The humor is not in the fine, but in the isolation of the patient. The isolation of the patient is a serious matter, for a piece of Sully Tilly sanitation the public health guardian who recommends this renovation is hereby awarded the striped gingham sunbonnet.

WOMEN MISSIONARIES

Review of Work in 1924

With approximately 250 delegates in attendance, representing congregations of the North Georgia conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, the Women's Missionary society of the conference Monday night opened its annual convention at the Hotel Grady.

The meeting will last for five days. The opening session was featured by a "Review of 1924," presented by Mrs. N. McGehee, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. E. W. Brown, treasurer.

The review showed that 10,000 women, 3,000 young people, and approximately 16,000 children of North Georgia have been raised and turned over to the foreign and home mission boards, $120,000. This money has been expended in many countries, particularly in Japan and China, as well as in missionary work in the conference.

Special Music Program.
Proceeding the review by the secretary and treasurer, a special music program, arranged by Mrs. B. F. Frazer, Jr., was rendered.

The program included an outline of the work of the missions in the home and abroad, and a talk by Miss Gibson, president emerita of the Seagriff college, who will review the efforts and accomplishments of the college.

Dinner to Delegates.
Among the entertainment features of the conference will be a dinner to the delegates at the Atlanta Woman's club, and a talk by Miss Gibson, president emerita of the Seagriff college, who will review the efforts and accomplishments of the college.

Establishment of Aviation Reserve Corps in Colleges Considered by Committee

National School of Aviation, Similar to West Point and Annapolis, Is Also Under Discussion.

BY THOMAS L. STOKES.
Washington, February 9.—Establishment of an air reserve corps in colleges throughout the country, to foster development of aviation from the "ground up," is under consideration by the special house committee investigating aircraft. Colleges would be assigned regular airplanes and competent instructors to teach flying, just as they are now assigned rifles and other military equipment by the government for R. O. T. C. units.

Students graduated in these courses would be given commissions in the reserve, just as in other college military courses. Besides its value in military preparedness, one of the principal aims of the movement would be the advancement of air science, giving students a close contact with its practical phases, and thus aiding commercial development.

Plan Studied Carefully.
This plan has been studied carefully by the committee, and is expected to be included among the recommendations to congress.

The future of commercial aviation has been given thorough consideration, and it is expected that valuable recommendations will be made in the committee's report. It is the general opinion that the government should aid in various ways.

Congress is against any form of direct subsidy. But there are various types of indirect aid which have been suggested and which are expected to be approved in the committee's report. These include:

1. Granting of mail contracts, for carrying certain types of mail, to commercial air companies.
2. Abolition of government aviation repair shops, turning this business over to private companies.
3. Establishment of landing fields, mapping out of airways by the government, and setting up certain restrictions to protect aviation.
4. Guarantee by the government that inventions of private companies will be utilized.

The commercial fleets would form a reserve to be used in time of war, with trained pilots ready for service. Whether the committee will go so far as to recommend a unified air service, championed by Brigadier General "Billy" Mitchell, assistant chief of the army air service, is not known. There is some difference of opinion on this point, though it is agreed generally that the United States is dropping behind in its development, and that some steps are necessary.

National Aviation School.
Another suggestion is the establishment of a national school of aviation, similar to West Point and Annapolis, and on the same basis. The committee is seriously considering such a recommendation.

The Mitchell case, meanwhile, is quiet. Secretary of War Weeks has announced that he will withhold decision as to Mitchell's demotion until the committee has finished its investigation. If this is not before March 4, a recess appointment will be made to fill the place.

Committee Probers Support Judge Baker
Washington, February 9.—The house committee which has investigated charges against Federal Judge Baker of the northern West Virginia district will report that the evidence does not warrant impeachment.

The subcommittee expects to submit its findings to the judiciary committee tomorrow. It has been working at an executive session today and unanimously decided to recommend against impeachment proceedings.

DIANA OF DUNES SCORNS HOSPITAL TO DIE ON SANDS
Chicago, February 9.—Diana of the Dunes, an honor graduate of the University of Chicago, who went to live amidst the sandy wastes along Lake Michigan between Fedigan City and Gary, Ind., is dead after nine years of privation in the nature life she loved.

A Phi Beta Kappa, stellar mathematician and editorial secretary of The Astrophysical Journal, a university publication, the then pretty Alice Gray, reputed member of a wealthy family, "in the east," retired to the sandy hills.

Her first winter in the dunes was uneventful, but she became an object of general interest the next spring when deputy sheriff scouted through the sand hills to find a nymph who in the light of the moon was wont to disport in nature's garb along the lake shore.

Three years ago she was joined in her wild life by a giant of whom nothing but the name Paul Wilson ever has been known. They were married and Wilson took up his bride's close-to-nature life.

They lived in a shack by the lake at the station which bears his name. It was in Wilson's arms that Diana died, scorning medical treatment, preferring death in the dunes to lingering in a hospital.

A doctor was called yesterday only after she had been unconscious. She asked her husband to cremate her body and scatter her ashes to the winds from the top of Mount Tom, the highest sand hill along the lake shore.

DAWES WILL ATTEND BIG BALL ON MARCH 4
Washington, February 9.—Officials in charge of plans for the charity ball to be given here on the night of March 4 announced today that Vice President-elect and Mrs. Charles G. Dawes had accepted an invitation to attend.

The ball was planned as an unofficial part of the inaugural ceremonies after President Coolidge had ruled against an inaugural ball at the white house. The arrangements committee is headed by Brigadier General William Mitchell, assistant chief of the army air service, and Major General John L. Chamberlain has been placed in charge of the distribution of tickets.

In addition to General Dawes many high officials of the federal and state governments are expected to be present, although President Coolidge himself will not go.

Waiting for Gabriel's Trumpet To Blow

Slightly shaken by the failure of the event to happen on scheduled time, but still clinging to the belief that the world will come to an end shortly, Robert Reidt is waiting with his family and other members of a sect of Seventh Day Adventists for the earth to be wiped out. The Reidt family is seen listening for the sound of Gabriel's trumpet at Patchogue, Long Island.

PULLMAN CHARGES ARE HELD JUSTIFIED Fails To See 'Light of Heaven' Reidt Asks Footlight Thrill

BY RODNEY F. DUTCHER.
Patchogue, L. I., February 9.—There is an ancient saying, thought Robert Reidt, the now widely-known but slightly discredited Apostle of Doom, that a prophet is without honor in his own home town.

Reidt's home is in East Patchogue, where he was to have seen the first sign of the world's destruction at Friday midnight, but didn't, so Reidt gazed out into the world and visualized the town of Patchogue, nearby. There might, he figure, be some honor to be found in Patchogue.

Thus it was that Reidt and certain of his disciples were found on the stage of the Patchogue theater Sunday night before a packed house. They were billed as the feature attraction and it was announced that this might be the first of a series of nationwide lectures on their "Gospel of Doom."

The decision declares that the investigation had not proceeded far enough for the commission to express conclusions as to the general reasonableness of Pullman charges, but that the surcharge had justified itself.

"When the time comes for requiring the railroads to accept less passenger revenue than they now receive those who experience the relative discomfort of ordinary day coach travel, many of them because they must count the pennies rather than those who select the most expensive and luxurious form of transportation which modern railroads afford, are clearly entitled to prior consideration," the majority opinion said.

"This showing justifies the conclusion that at least there is less warrant for eliminating the surcharge than for reducing the basic passenger fare which applies even to travel in mixed trains of freight and passenger cars."

The commission was split up in its finding. Chairman Aitchison and Commissioner Esch although concurring, proposed that the surcharge should be cut in half, while Commissioner Lewis advocated that the form of the extra charge be changed and that Pullman passengers should be required to pay 10 per cent more than day-coach travelers in railroad fares.

Commissioner McChord dissented completely without stating reasons, while Commissioner Campbell and other dissenting members declared that it was "not reasonable or fair to the traveling public to permit a general charge of this character to stand when so much of it accrues to lines that do not need it."

Commissioner McManamy in a third dissent declared that the extra charge of having Pullman cars should in part be assessed against the Pullman company.

The decision does not affect action of state public utilities which have handed down decisions covering travel wholly within their state borders.

BALTO, HERO DOG IN MUSH TO NOME, IS STILL ALIVE
Nome, Alaska, February 9.—Balto, lead dog in the Ka-o-Ga expedition, of this city, the hero of the final run of a relay in which 300,000 units of antitoxin were brought to Nome a week ago to fight a diphtheria epidemic, is not dead, as reported from Fairbanks, Alaska.

Nor did any other of Kasson's dogs die, though four of them came from the Yukon Valley section a year ago, were slightly frozen about the thighs. All Kasson's dogs were in harness the next day.

JUGO-SLAV PREMIER SECURES MAJORITY
Belgrade, February 9.—(By the Associated Press.)—The government of Premier Nikola Pachitch carried 162 seats out of a total of 315 in yesterday's elections for a new parliament, giving it a small majority over the parties of the opposition combined.

Of the opposition groups, that of the Croatian Agrarian party, led by Stefan Raditch, with 68 deputies, is the most numerous.

The Davidovitch group has 39 deputies, the Slovans 19 and the Mussulman Bonins 13. The government bloc is made up of the radicals with 141 seats and the democrats with 21 seats.

Premier Pachitch, Foreign Minister Nincich and Minister of Finance Stoyadinovitch were reelected. No socialists or communists were elected.

Sunday's election followed a period of extreme political tension in Jugo Slavia, an outgrowth of the rivalries among the racial factions in the heterogeneous population of the country, the Serbs, the Croats, Dalmatians, Slovans and others. The Serbian party of Premier Pachitch desires a strongly centralized government, while the others, notably the Croatian peasants, want to make Jugo Slavia more of a federation of autonomous states.

COOLIDGE WANTS LAW TO REGULATE RENTALS
Washington, February 9.—President Coolidge, through Representative Bezz, of Ohio, member of the republican steering committee of the house, notified house leaders today that he desired enactment before adjournment of congress of legislation to regulate rentals in the District of Columbia.

Mr. Coolidge did not specify the form he believed the legislation should take, but took the position that mounting rentals in the capital had created conditions that congress should endeavor to correct.

SENATE CONSIDERS SHOALS BILL TODAY

Washington, February 9.—Senate consideration of the conference report on the Underwood Muscle Shoals leasing bill went over today until tomorrow because of the legislative situation.

Managers of the measure had planned to call it up today, but insistence by Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, for action on his power investigation resolution forced the Muscle Shoals question aside.

Chairman Keyes, of the conference, now expects to bring up the conference report tomorrow. Although there is no organized opposition to the legislation, considerable discussion is expected to center around the report of the conferees.

Both supporters and opponents of the measure predict it will be adopted by both the senate and house. Action by the house must await the vote in the senate.

Under the rules, the senate and house either must accept or reject in its entirety the report as submitted by the conferees. Amendments cannot be offered on the floor.

Rejection of the report, however, would be regarded by supporters of the measure as closing the doors to any Muscle Shoals legislation at session.

For the convenience of the senate, Senator Norris today obtained consent to have the Underwood bill in the conference report printed in parallel form.

Senator Underwood, democrat, Alabama, author of the bill said today he still believed the measure had the support of the majority of the senate although some shifting of votes may be expected.

CENTRAL OF GEORGIA DISCUSSES FREIGHT RATES ON FARM PRODUCTS

The interests of agriculture and transportation are mutual. Agriculture furnishes much traffic to the railways. Railway facilities have opened the markets of the world to farmers. The railroad, more than any one factor except the farmer's own labor, is the source of the value of farm products.

Despite the fact that the interests of the farmer and the railways are mutual, there is continual agitation for a reduction of freight rates upon agricultural products. Without questioning the sincerity of those who advocate such a plan, facts and figures prove that this course, instead of promoting the welfare of the farmer, would have the contrary effect. The farmer's welfare and that of business generally can best be served by permitting the railways to earn sufficient money to supply adequate transportation, which is the prime need of the country.

A study of the agricultural situation develops certain conclusions that cannot be successfully contradicted. They are as follows:

1. Farm conditions are steadily improving.
2. The United States Department of Agriculture reports that from 1922 to 1924 the value of farm products increased two and a half billion dollars.
3. The present level of freight rates does not interfere with the free movement of farm products.

The annual report of the Interstate Commerce Commission says "manifestly existing rates are no longer interfering with the free flow of commerce as a whole."

If, because of the law of supply and demand, overproduction, marketing conditions or the number of middlemen, the producer fails to receive his share of the final sale price, the railroads cannot be expected to make up that loss.

Freight rates are but a minor factor in the farmer's situation. The farmer's freight bill is less than his interest charges and but little more than his taxes. Secretary of Agriculture Wallace said "if interest rates to farmers are reduced but 14 per cent it would mean the equivalent of a 20 per cent reduction in freight rates in so far as the comparative benefit to the farmer is concerned."

Freight rates on farm products are not out of proportion. Agricultural products require, and receive greater facilities and service, because of their perishable nature, than other carload freight, but, nevertheless, agricultural products are today paying rates which, in comparison with other carload freight, are relatively lower than during the pre-war period.

The railways are in no condition to withstand a reduction in their revenues. The rate of return earned by the railways of the country upon the value of property devoted to transportation for the past five years has been as follows:

	1920	0.09 per cent
	1921	2.91 " "
	1922	3.64 " "
	1923	4.43 " "
	1924	4.30 " " (approximate)

During recent months many miles of railroad in the southeast have been abandoned and many other properties are in the hands of receivers. Whenever this situation arises farmers and business men suffer through lack of railway facilities.

Since the railways are not receiving the fair rate of return (5 3/4 per cent) fixed by the Interstate Commerce Commission, it is obvious that the loss in revenue, should the rate on farm products be reduced, would have to be made up by increases on other classes of freight. This would result in increased costs, which would have to be borne by the ultimate consumer, the farmer included.

The railroads are doing their part in assisting agriculture. Rates have been continually reduced since 1920, the total saving to shippers of agricultural products alone amounting to more than four hundred million dollars in that period. There was a blanket reduction of all rates on agricultural products in 1922. Wheat, corn, hay, potatoes and live stock have been included in further reductions. In Central of Georgia territory there have been specific reductions in the rates on fruits and vegetables. Transit arrangements and warehousing privileges for the benefit of the farmer have been established on live poultry, eggs, butter, molasses, syrup and hay.

The farmer needs service from the railways. He can afford to pay reasonable rates that will permit the railways to supply him with transportation. He cannot afford to endorse a crippling policy of rate reduction that will deprive him of his prime need—adequate transportation—or that will prevent the carriers from giving him dependable service.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

Congress Hopes to Enact Some Kind of Legislation For Farmers This Week

If Any Is Enacted at All, It Will Be Far Short of Farm Commission's Recommendations.

BY MARK SULLIVAN.

Washington, February 9.—Congress hopes this week to get around to what one senator calls "some sort of farm legislation." It is expected that legislation, if it passes at all, will be hardly more than doing nothing.

The republican party, as a party, wants to do something for the farmer, because its platform promised to do something. Practically every member of the lower house, with the farmer constituents, wants to do something because it is now certain there will be no extra session, and that the time the next regular session can get around to farm legislation, the individual congressman will have reached the point where his re-election is in question.

Time To Do Short. But whatever is done for the farmer will be much short of what President Coolidge's agricultural commission recommended and much short of that school of thought which thinks it is time to cease nibbling at the farm problem each time a specific emergency comes up, and time to devise a long-distance program.

Neither of these things will be done, because the time is too short for one reason, and for another reason there are two directly antagonistic schools of thought about what ought to be done for agriculture. The cleavage between them is so deep, and so much personal feeling has been stirred up by mutual accusations of the leaders of the two groups, that they cannot possibly be reconciled in the 17 days left of this session.

Wide Differences in Views. The difference in point of view can be illustrated by one recommendation made by President Coolidge's agricultural commission. It recommended that there be a revision of railroad rates so as to carry farm commodities more cheaply. One group of farm leaders would go at that at once, with an eye single to reducing the rates on farm commodities, and without any thought of the other interests involved, including the railroads themselves.

The other group of farm leaders thinks freight rates on farm commodities should be lowered as an aid to the farmer, but that during most of the past four years, when the rates were high, the farmer has been prosperous, and that the second group wants to accomplish the reduction of rates on farm commodities without any thought of the other industries or to the railroads.

Farm Produces Prohibition Varies. To be specific, a southern western railroad, the proportion of farm products carried is more than half the total. To slash the farm freight on such a road would reduce it, quite possibly, to bankruptcy. On other railroads, the proportion of farm products carried is less than one-tenth. Such a road could endure a cut in freight.

Now the point is that all the railroads at this moment are engaged in a series of consolidations, and the consolidations are demanded by law. In these consolidations, roads that carry much farm freight will be merged with roads that carry little. After the consolidations, farm freight rates can be reduced without doing serious injury to the newly-consolidated unit. The school of thought that runs this way wants to help the farming industry, but wants to help it without, by the same action, doing immense damage to the present prosperity of another industry, the railroads.

Characteristic of Differences. This illustration is characteristic of the entire difference of the two groups. The farm leaders of the older type, who have prevailed in the past, think of the farmer in terms of jealousy of other industries, and think that the farmer by taking away from railroads, dealers, manufacturers and other industries advantages which they think these industries enjoy at the expense of the farmer.

The newer school of farm thought wants to bring prosperity and especially stability to the farmer, not by fighting the other industries for points from time to time, but by cooperation with the other industries on a long-time future program, looking to the elimination of waste and other advantages for all.

Tariff Illustrates Views. The difference is illustrated again as respects the tariff. The older group of farm leaders think habitually in terms of reducing the tariff on manufactured goods so as to enable the farmer to get more cheaply what he must buy. The newer school wants to consider the country as a whole. They want to maintain a high standard of living for everybody by continued protection for all industries. They want to insure a good home market here in America for the farmer's products, and they want to pay less attention to the foreign market for American farm products, because what the American farmer sells abroad is only 10 per cent of the whole, and how; and because they think the foreign market for American farm products is in the future going to be unsatisfactory for reasons that the farmer cannot control. This school would give the American farmer not only complete protection for what he now raises, but would raise the tariff on foreign items so as to stimulate American farmers to raise some things now imported.

Tariff To Be Revived. The farm problem is certain to run into the tariff problem. Indeed, the feeling increases that as respects all industries, the tariff is going to be a problem as soon as a revised Europe begins to manufacture and sell at full speed. Many anticipate that the tariff will be revived.

will come up at the next regular session. That is one reason, among others, why La Follette has been put at the bottom of the senate's tariff-making committee, on the ground that he has ceased to be a republican. La Follette stands second on the committee. If anything should happen to the chairman, Smoot, La Follette would have a large degree of control of tariff making. A good many people might prefer the kind of tariff La Follette would make to the kind Smoot would make. But it cannot be questioned that the Smoot, as the representative of the republican party, who has a franchise from the public through the recent election, to the congress, is the one who will be denied a franchise to do that or anything else.

Think La Follette Persecuted. Many persons think it looks like persecution, trying to keep the second place on the finance committee and the chairmanship of the manufacturing committee, and either the Smoot or the La Follette, in the next regular session can get around to farm legislation, the individual congressman will have reached the point where his re-election is in question.

"COIN" MACHINES CAUSE OPERATORS TO VISIT COURT

Aroused by repeated complaints from alleged victims of gaming coin machines, Judge Sibley yesterday issued a writ of habeas corpus for the operators of these machines, who were arrested last night.

It recommended that there be a revision of railroad rates so as to carry farm commodities more cheaply. One group of farm leaders would go at that at once, with an eye single to reducing the rates on farm commodities, and without any thought of the other interests involved, including the railroads themselves.

This is the tenth of a series of articles on the remarkable athletic career of Paavo Nurmi, the marvel of Finland. At 10 years of age he ran 1,500 meters in 5 minutes and 2 seconds and now is breaking world's records about every time he faces the starter. Generally recognized as the greatest runner of all time, the story of his athletic life reads like a romance.

As Told by Him to Charles E. Parker. (Copyright, 1925, in United States and Great Britain by North American Newspaper Alliance. Copyright (New York World) Press Publishing Company. All rights reserved.)

The scene of Paavo Nurmi's race with Elvin Wide—the race Paavo regards as the most noteworthy in his brilliant career—was the Stockholm stadium, where he won the 10,000-meter race.

That arena has a particular appeal to all Finns. It was there that Hannes Kolehmainen made Olympic history by winning silver medals in three of the most taxing tests on the Olympic program of 1912. It was there and by reason of Kolehmainen's work and the efforts of Sanjaristo, Peltonen and others that Finland very definitely took its place as one of the leading athletic nations of the world.

As an American youth might be inclined to view the career of Paavo Nurmi, the revolution, Paavo was inspired when he stepped into the Stockholm coliseum. During the days before the race he was scheduled for August 12, 1923, Paavo found it difficult to remain away from the track. He danced along his half-packed cinders, and he was not a day, and established in his mind the points along the route where he would check his pace with the stop-watch he was to carry. He found the track far superior to those in Finland.

Stockholm Baked Wide. Stockholm awaited the day fretfully. Her people were confident their adopted fellow citizen, Wide, would take the measure of Nurmi. They besieged the group of Finns who had accompanied Paavo with offers to wager on the race, and Paavo's friends accommodated them. And when the great day arrived the stadium was packed.

A noisy throng it was. But absolute silence reigned as the two great foot-racers were called to the mark for their instructions.

Paavo had mapped out a definite program for the early portion of the race, but he decided to let conditions govern later stages. His mind, and the little Finnish contingent, acting like a group of madmen in the stadium stands.

But the thrill of the thing did not end with the victory. An excited conference was going on among the official timers and the monster gallery held its seats. When this conference ended, the announcer stepped to the center of the arena, raised his megaphone and informed the throng that the world's records had been shattered both at the 1,500-meter mark and the mile.

Three minutes and fifty-five seconds was Paavo's time for the former, nearly two seconds faster than the record made by the American, and two minutes and twenty-five seconds was Paavo's time for a mile—a mark more than two seconds faster than Norman Taber's supposedly unbeatable record, made in 1916.

PAVO NURMI'S STORY. As Told by Him to Charles E. Parker. (Copyright, 1925, in United States and Great Britain by North American Newspaper Alliance. Copyright (New York World) Press Publishing Company. All rights reserved.)

The scene of Paavo Nurmi's race with Elvin Wide—the race Paavo regards as the most noteworthy in his brilliant career—was the Stockholm stadium, where he won the 10,000-meter race.

That arena has a particular appeal to all Finns. It was there that Hannes Kolehmainen made Olympic history by winning silver medals in three of the most taxing tests on the Olympic program of 1912. It was there and by reason of Kolehmainen's work and the efforts of Sanjaristo, Peltonen and others that Finland very definitely took its place as one of the leading athletic nations of the world.

As an American youth might be inclined to view the career of Paavo Nurmi, the revolution, Paavo was inspired when he stepped into the Stockholm coliseum. During the days before the race he was scheduled for August 12, 1923, Paavo found it difficult to remain away from the track. He danced along his half-packed cinders, and he was not a day, and established in his mind the points along the route where he would check his pace with the stop-watch he was to carry. He found the track far superior to those in Finland.

Stockholm Baked Wide. Stockholm awaited the day fretfully. Her people were confident their adopted fellow citizen, Wide, would take the measure of Nurmi. They besieged the group of Finns who had accompanied Paavo with offers to wager on the race, and Paavo's friends accommodated them. And when the great day arrived the stadium was packed.

A noisy throng it was. But absolute silence reigned as the two great foot-racers were called to the mark for their instructions.

Paavo had mapped out a definite program for the early portion of the race, but he decided to let conditions govern later stages. His mind, and the little Finnish contingent, acting like a group of madmen in the stadium stands.

But the thrill of the thing did not end with the victory. An excited conference was going on among the official timers and the monster gallery held its seats. When this conference ended, the announcer stepped to the center of the arena, raised his megaphone and informed the throng that the world's records had been shattered both at the 1,500-meter mark and the mile.

Three minutes and fifty-five seconds was Paavo's time for the former, nearly two seconds faster than the record made by the American, and two minutes and twenty-five seconds was Paavo's time for a mile—a mark more than two seconds faster than Norman Taber's supposedly unbeatable record, made in 1916.

TIGER BOXES TWO FISTS THURSDAY

The best fistic card that has been offered the members of the business Men's Athletic club is being planned for Thursday night, according to announcement yesterday from Gus Castle, in charge of arrangements for the club smoker.

Members of the club will be fortunate in that they will get to see Tiger Flowers in action and that is something that will be denied the remainder of Atlanta's ring fans at least until March 31, when the Tiger may be pitted against Allentown Joe Jans at the city auditorium. That match is considerably in doubt.

Flowers on the club smoker card will box four exhibition rounds, two against Happy Hunter and the other two with Herbert Moore. Both of these opponents are Atlanta negroes and are good enough for Flowers in a purely exhibition affair.

The other matches, and several are being arranged, will be between strictly amateur talent. That is another reason to look for action and plenty of it.

pinch, and with that injured hand, I was sure I had landed a coming star. You're generally there in a tight place. Maybe this is the toughest yet yet for me.

A few days later I went to Hot Springs to direct the training of the manager. I took with me all the authority of a big league club manager.

TECH HIGH QUINNET SMOTHERS UNBEATEN TEAMS, PIEDMONT, J. P. C., MEET TONIGHT

Visitors Fail To Display Strength of Advance Dope; Morris, Lautzenheiser Star

BY JULIAN GRIFFIN.

Coach E. M. Mooney's highly press-agented quintet from Riverside Military academy pulled a big surprise in prep circles on the Henry Grady court yesterday afternoon, when it failed to furnish anywhere near even opposition for the boys of the Tech high team, and was completely annihilated to the tune of 40 to 19, as Morris, Allen and Lautzenheiser dropped 'em in the basket at will and Thomson and Randolph worked into a fast passing system on defense.

Great things were expected of the quintet from Gainesville that holds victories over such teams as Boys' High, Marietta, U. S. B., New Holland and a host of other representative teams in the state. But the works failed to function yesterday.

And what makes it stranger, the game was played on even terms for the first few minutes of the game. Morris shot the first goal of the afternoon after the game had been in progress for 25 seconds, but then came right back and tied it up by pitching in one for Riverside.

The Gainesville cadets got ahead on a foul goal, and then Tech high field goal and Allen shot to make the score five to six in favor of the Smithies as time was taken out.

Riddle Ties Score. Riddle, Riverside's captain and great all-around athlete, negotiated for a counter that put his team in the lead, 10 to 8. Morris then loomed a pretty one to put Tech High in the lead once more. Riddle made good a foul shot, tying the school at 8-8. All indications pointed to a battle royal.

"Stumpy" Thomson, the lad who gained much fame on the gridiron under Tech High colors last fall, sank one from the middle of the court and the Smithie outfit stepped on the gas and spurred away out of danger, the forwards and center dropping 'em in the basket in rapid succession.

This scoring was kept up until it stood 17 to 8, about five minutes before the half ended. Coach Mooney told a sub to go in after the next goal. The sub didn't get in until the new period began; the score being 17-8 at the intermission.

The second half was Tech High's all the way. The score kept rising at practically the same rate as during the first period after Tech High had stepped on the gas.

Morris Is Star. Morris, Tech High center and captain, played the best game of the day. He has a way of taking the ball out of his territory, passing and then, with a dazzling burst of speed, run through the defense to a reasonable shooting position.

Lautzenheiser, at forward, played a great game and contributed an even dozen points for his share of the day's work. Allen, little but bold, played the other forward and made a neat little running mate for Thomson, the two being about the same size. Randolph, the other guard,

'Pug' Bryant, Oglethorpe Ace, Signs Pittsburg Contract

Pittsburg, February 9.—Herbert Bryant, captain and catcher on the Oglethorpe university baseball team last season, has been signed for a try-out with the Pittsburg National league club, officials announced tonight. Bryant played semi-professional ball with a Cartersville, Ga., club, following the close of the collegiate season.

Bryant Popular Here. "Pug" Bryant, as he was familiarly known in this section, was one of the best members of the Oglethorpe aggregation for the past three years, the team that topped the southern championship during the 1929 season. In addition to his brilliant work behind the bat, he stepped into the batter's box and connected for a net-centage of .350, which was next to the highest percentage of any member of the squad. Partridge swatted the apple for 441.

Bryant's home town is Rock Hill, S. C., and he was a member of the Oglethorpe team and Oglethorpe. He was graduated from the university last season.

It was his good fortune to lead the team as captain during the championship year last season, when 20 games were registered in the won column, against two on the lost side of the ledger.

During that successful year he was at bat 71 times, scored 25 runs, made 27 hits for the percentage of .367. He has many friends in all sections of the south who wish for him much success in his big league venture.

HORSES ENTER WATER EVENTS LATONIA STAKES

Cincinnati, Ohio, February 9.—Three hundred and eighty thoroughbreds have been nominated for the 1932 Latonia championship stakes to be run at the Latonia track during the autumn meeting. The nominations made public today show that Willis Sharpe Kilmer and Harry Payne Whitney lead in number of eligibles, each having six representatives. The best year-olds in America, including Master Charlie, are named to start in the stake, which will have an estimated value of $40,000.

FOUR SPORTS GOING ON AT TECH

Grant field was the scene of much action yesterday afternoon when basketball candidates reported to the coaches for the initial practice of the year in both branches of sport.

A large group of candidates were out for both the gridiron warriors reporting to Head Coach Alexander and the baseball men checking in at the desk of Robert Alva Clay, the baseball mentor of the institution.

All four major branches of college athletics are now in full swing on the Tech campus. Basketball and track men were already doing their daily dozens. Some of the men on the basketball team will also try out for baseball, while others will go out for the gridiron work also. These men will not report for the other work until basketball season is over, it was announced.

GRANT PARK RESUMES LEAD

BY DAVID JENKINS.

Grant Park went back to the top peg in the Atlanta league by virtue of an easy 36 to 14 victory over the First Church quintet, in the first game of the four games staged in the Epworth union, Monday night. Other games resulted in a 16-to-8 win for Kirkwood (girls) over Grace Methodist, and a 20-to-10 win for the undefeated victory for Oakland City over Druid Hills, score 50 to 13, and the last encounter proved to be the best played of the season, Grant Park, 31 to 20, over a 31-to-18 score over Center street.

With Lanford hooking the net from all parts of the court, Grant Park came out of a tangle tie for first honors by displaying a good passing and guarding game. All of Lanford's points were made by the field goal route. Stone tied him for scoring honors, with the same amount, but Stone's markers came by six field goals and two foul shots. Stone and Hammock played good ball for the losers, each getting six and five points respectively.

Kirkwood brought its percentage in the Atlanta league up to an even 500, and is closely behind Grace, in second place. The game was featured by the accurate shooting of Garrett, who obtained 12 points, some of them being very difficult. Hollingsworth and Spinks played a good game for Grace.

Druid Hills Handicapped. Playing the latter part of the game with only three players, Grace Forster and Mahone were forced out on account of personal fouls. Druid Hills, although handicapped severely, stayed in and ended the game, Oakland City making points at will, Morris and Andy were the scoring stars for the victors.

The last affair was fast and interesting throughout, with St. Johns holding a slim lead from start to finish. Kerr for Center street, won the individual scoring star, while St. Johns' ability to "swipe" the ball enabled them to earn a clean cut victory, each regular player of St. Johns got four or more points to their credit. St. Johns is coming up in the State league, and is close on the heels of College Park, runner-up to Oakland City.

Due to a meeting at the Park Street church tonight, the usual weekday night games will not be played. Three more games are booked for Thursday, and in completing the week's play four will be played Friday night.

EMORY FROSH QUINNET SHINES

The freshmen-lad encounter proved to be the best staged on the Emory University court last night, out of the three games staged, the freshmen winning, 27 to 22. In the other two games, the seniors defeated the freshmen, 40-14, and the freshmen made loss to the juniors, 57 to 8.

The first game proved to be fast and very good from start to end. The freshmen were leading at the half, 15 to 10. In the other two games the winners had a "snap."

SPORT PECULATION by George Congdon

Scoring Plays. Bill Fincher. The Real Meaning.

ALL this basketball season we have been promising ourselves that we would slip over to watch the J. P. C. quiet in action. All this season we have found something else to engage our time when the J. P. C. club was playing on its home court. Tonight we make the grade. We have set our heart on it, and our mind, if any, as well. Finkelstein, Spielberger, Dorfman, Siegel and Rosenberg, after tonight, will no longer be only names to us. We will be able to connect definitely, we believe, those names with outstanding action.

Particularly engaging should be that scrap on the J. P. C. floor tonight. The J. P. C.'s have taken everything for a ride, including some of the best teams in this section. The J. P. C.'s have worked consistently, with what appears to be a snatch of the old-time teamwork that has been lacking for every contest we've seen this year. Tonight's opponent for the J. P. C. club is particularly interesting. A small college, Piedmont, yet it has been the strutting block of half a dozen winning teams. The result is that it, like the J. P. C. five, is undefeated this season.

ABOUT that teamwork remark. We don't mean just that. The impression meant to be given was that teams we have seen in action have been lacking in that definite passing system—system of plays, if you will—that characterized the games we used to see. We've seen winning teams in action, all right, but the victories have, in some instances, seemed to come from the individual efforts of one or two men.

Stevens right under the club has a neat play that winds up with Pat Hansen in a great-looking scheme of scoring, but the game Tech has won have, again, been the result of individual effort, with long shots playing a big part. Somehow, we feel that tonight, in the J. P. C.-Piedmont game we're going to see once more the old scoring play that works. We sincerely hope so.

THEY say ignorance is bliss. We were forcefully reminded of the truth of this the other night when we met Bill Fincher. Had we known of our sin we would have dreaded that meeting with Bill as an erring youngster dreads being "caught up with." As it was, we were all smiles as we ran across Bill, shook hands with him and passed the time of day, or rather evening. Just this, we came near getting Bill in trouble, inadvertently, of course, but, nevertheless, we have observed that generally anyone getting Bill in trouble has more or less difficulty in getting out of trouble with Bill.

When the faculty of G. M. A. the other night was playing the Bass Junior High faculty for the prep faculty championship, there was no scorer. This chronicler gave the berries to one of the teams, quoting authority for the winning of the game as Bill Fincher. Bill says it's all wrong. "I was busy refereeing," Bill explained to us after describing the direction things we laid him open to in giving the game to whichever team was supposed to have won. "I couldn't keep score while I was officiating and I wasn't even in on it when they decided the winner. Nothing's happened so far. Maybe it won't. Anyway, from now on I'm not officiating at any games where they haven't a scorekeeper, too."

W. T. GARTH, of Huntsville, Ala., has just sold Great Bells, 2-09½, for $40,000, what is said to be a record price for a trotting horse sold in the south. That much of the news item doesn't mean much. The fact that George Stiles trained Great Bells up at his Rome establishment does mean a lot, even beyond the fact that Gus Coggins sold a trotter to Tom Murphy some time ago for what was also said to have been $10,000.

Ten thousand dollars is a lot of money for any trotting horse, unless it's another single G. Peter Manning, Belwin, Peter the Great or Mr. McElwain. That southern trainers are turning out trotters that bring a price like that means that the light harness sport is certainly well grounded in the south. Return of the grand circuit meeting to Atlanta this fall will help to encourage the turning out of trotters like Great Bells.

It was a red-faced, wild-eyed Albert Gossett who rushed in upon the evening quiet of our long time since he showed himself with the first-hand evidence that Timmie O'Dowd, his featherweight fighter, had knocked out the Cuban, Valdez, in Havana Saturday night. The information was late getting here, but the delay only added to the wildness of Brother Gossett. He has been aiming for such a victory for Tim.

With his knockout victory over Valdez stowed away for good, Tim ought to be a good entertainer for the local blood-thirsty bunch. It's been a long time since he showed himself. He'd show here, he'd show here, he always boxed for good houses. He's been making them sit up other places. Another thing about Tim is that he isn't particular who he fights. He'll take anyone near his weight. Some ambitious promoter wouldn't make a mistake by matching Tim with a good scrapper here, in our view of O'Dowd.

WE can't help a little explosion when they lay it on anything the way vaudeville songsters have laid it on poor old "Sally." If no one's found her, and they're still wondering what's become of her, we suggest that they "follow the swallow back home," and then stay there, out of our hearing.

Bulldogs Invade Auburn For Cage Conflict Tonight

BY EMMETT SIZEMORE.

Auburn, Ala., February 9.—(Special.)—The Auburn Tiger basketball team will meet the Georgia Bulldog quintet from Athens on the Plainsman court here Tuesday night in their first combat of the 1932 season. The Bulldogs are playing a return game at Athens late Monday afternoon for Auburn, where it will play the Auburn "Tigers" tonight. The squad was scheduled to spend the night in Atlanta, leaving there early tomorrow morning.

Nine men made the trip, accompanied by Coach Stegeman. The men making the trip included Nolan Richardson, "Buster" Kilpatrick, Jake Butler and George Morton, forwards; Walter Forbes and "Horse" Harris, centers; Captain Charlie Wehlers, Harrell Huguely and "Mickey" Frain, guards.

Following their 28-to-24 victory over the Kentucky team here Saturday night, Coach Stegeman sent the Bulldogs through a short but rigorous drill Monday afternoon, and his charges are in fine condition for the game.

The best form of the year was displayed by the Red and Black here Saturday night against Kentucky, and the Bulldogs are determined to take the "Tigers" measure. Auburn won last Saturday night from Tech by a one-point margin, and the Jacks defeated the Bulldogs previously this season.

The Bulldogs will return to Athens Wednesday and begin preparation for their game with the Atlanta Athletic club to be played here Saturday night. The clubbers vanquished the Red and Black earlier this season and Bulldogs will be out for revenge in their next game, which promises to be a thriller.

Georgia's new basketball court is expected to be ready for the game Saturday night. Work is being rushed in an effort to get it completed to house the basket fans here.

FINN TAKES 3,000-YARD EVENT

Portland, Maine, February 9.—Paavo Nurmi, Finnish distance star, won a featureless victory in the special 3,000-yard run at the American Legion games here tonight and failed by several seconds to touch the "red" indoor record of seven minutes, 58.1-5 seconds for the distance. His time was eight minutes, 14.2-5 seconds.

Nurmi lapped the other three stars twice. He seemingly made no attempt to challenge the record and made no sprint at the finish. His competitors were Sullivan, of Colby, Whittier, of Bowdoin, and Ludvick, of Fort Preble.

ROME HORSE SOLD FOR $10,000

Rome, G. I., February 9.—(Special.) George Stiles, noted Georgia horseman, announced today the sale of Great Bells 2-09½, to Lon McDonald, all-around circuit driver, of Indianapolis, for $10,000. It was the highest price ever paid for a Georgia trotter, according to Mr. Stiles.

The horse was sent to Stiles in May, 1922, by W. T. Garth of Huntsville, Ala., with instructions that he be made into a great trotter. Under Stiles, one of Georgia's best horse trainers, Great Bells was made into a real trotter and the grand circuit drivers have taken the horse for a try during the summer.

During the past two years, under Stiles' careful attention, Great Bells has won 20 out of 30 starts, and a purse of more than $6,000. The horse was trained on Stiles' Edgewater farm, just outside of Rome.

'BAMA TRACK PROSPECTS BRIGHT

BY BOB MATHERNE.

University, Ala., February 9.—(Special.)—Alabama is in a predicament concerning her chance to place on the field this spring a track team that will not be easily beaten by every other team in the south.

The Crimson have been scheduled to take part in four meets, including the Tech relays, and are working out hard to get in condition for their meets which will start in April.

The first meet of the year for the Crimson track and cinder artists will be on April 11, a dual meet with Alabama, to be held in Birmingham. The following week-end will see Alabama coming over in Atlanta for the Tech relays. The next week-end, home soil will be the battling ground with the Tulane Greenies, easy victors last year over Alabama, down at New Orleans, doing the opposition stuff. The Mississippi Aggies follow the Greenies at the Capstone, and a fourth dual meet for the campus is now pending. Of course, the Crimson will enter the South Carolina meet at Sewanee, in May.

JOHNSON TO GO TO HOT SPRINGS

Washington, February 9.—Walter Johnson, who announced today at Reno that he would pitch again for the Senators, is under orders to report to Manager Harry Frazar at Hot Springs, Ark., to begin training Monday with other veterans of the team.

S. S. ATHLETES PLAY 6 GAMES

There will be six games of basketball tonight on the Central Y. M. C. A. court, the first to start at 9:00 o'clock.

HOKE SMITH BEATS JOE BROWN

Hoke Smith Junior High defeated Joe Brown Junior High, 26 to 11, in a loosely played basketball game yesterday afternoon on the city auditorium court.

The Hoke Smith lads with a well balanced club played a consistent game from the beginning and were never in danger of losing the game. Barden and Slate were the offensive stars for Hoke Smith with 12 and 10 points respectively.

Lineup and Summary. HOKE SMITH (26) Pos. BROWN (11) Darden (12) Pos. Dorman (2) Slate (10) Pos. Smith (3) Hopkins (10) Pos. Daniels (4) Bluestein (10) Pos. Selers (2) Davis (10) Pos. Collins (4) Substitutions: Smith, Humans (4) for Bluestein, Bluestein for Humans, McDaniel for Hopkins, Brown, Hardy for Selers.

DETROIT WILLING TO PAY GIBBONS PRICE FOR LUIS

New York, February 9.—If Luis Angel Firpo can find a boat big enough to float him back to America after he gets through sampling the food and the pleasures of Continental Europe, he can have the fight with Tommy Gibbons that he has talked so much about. Promoters in Detroit are willing to take up the promotion where the National Sporting Club of London dropped it a few weeks ago. Gibbons wanted a guarantee of $75,000 and that discouraged the English financiers, but Eddie Kane, Gibbons' manager, says the men in Detroit believe they will be able to pay Gibbons his price.

Kane said the Detroit syndicate would now try to learn Firpo's price for a match with Tommy. The plan of battle calls for an open air fight next summer.

Atlanta Five Has String Of Even Dozen Victories; Games Also Billed at Fort

BY ROY ENOCH WHITE.

Two undefeated basketball teams will meet tonight at 8:30 o'clock on the Jewish Alliance court, at 90 Central avenue, when the Piedmont College five, from Demorest, Ga., and the Jewish Progressive club line up against each other.

Another feature attraction billed for tonight will be at Fort McPherson, when a double-header will be played, the first game between the Gordon Street Presbyterian five and Westminster girls, at 7:15 o'clock; and at 8 o'clock the Twenty-second Infantry team meets the Westminster Athletic club.

The Jewish Progressive club-Piedmont game should be the best of the major attractions for tonight. Both of the teams have clean records over some of the best basketball teams in this section.

The basketweavers of the club are out tonight for their thirteenth consecutive win when they take on the Piedmont five.

The collegians also have a clean slate to date, holding verdicts over such powerful aggregations as the Atlanta "Y," Miami "Y" and Rollins college, in addition to a number of others.

Piedmont Offense Strong. They bring to Atlanta two brilliant performers in Sheridan and Head, both of whom have played exceptionally clever basketball this season. The individual playing of Head in accounting for 25 points against Rollins college is a notable case in point and demonstrates conclusively the power of the collegians' offensive strength. Against Central "Y," Miami "Y" and Rollins college their guarding was unusually good, yielding to the best efforts of those high-scoring scoring machines an average of but 23 points per game.

Those who have seen the J. P. C. five at work are firm in the belief that not even such stellar defensive playing as that displayed by the Piedmont college outfit is capable of stopping the "gold dust twins," Finkelstein and Spielberger, not to mention "Fighting Luke" Rosenberg, the best running guard seen on a local court in many days, the lad with an uncanny knack of sinking 'em through the hoops with the ease born of confidence.

J. P. C. High Scorer. There is food for thought in the statement that the local clubbers have never scored less than 35 points in any one game this year. That which mark was reached when they registered 57 counters against the Twenty-second infantry team from Fort McPherson. For the 12 games they have averaged 44 points, which undoubtedly sets a record for the present basketball season.

Tonight's game will likely resolve itself into a "survival-of-the-fittest" affair, for both teams are undefeated so far and may be depended upon to give their all in an effort to continue on their winning way. The J. P. C.'s will strive hard to come through on top, utilizing every ounce of energy, every iota of skill, every bit of knowledge in their eager repertoire to stem the attack of the invaders and successfully negotiate their thirteenth encounter of the season. To that end, it is to be expected that Finkelstein, Spielberger, Dorfman, Siegel, Rosenberg and the balance of that wrecking crew will apply themselves assiduously to the task at hand and are a wonderful layout for a golf course.

BOBBY JONES RETURNS HOME

Bobby Jones, national amateur golf champion, returned to Atlanta Sunday from a six weeks' stay in Sarasota, Fla., where he has been on a business trip. Bobby will only be in Atlanta for one week and will leave next Sunday afternoon to return to Florida, where he will continue in the real estate business, for the Adair Realty company, until the first of March.

He stated that Sarasota had a wonderful layout for a golf course.

Penelope's Personal Service

This is exactly like playing "Button, button, who's got the button," only of course, it's "answer" instead of "button." And I'd rather answer questions than, well . . . work cross-word puzzles! Please keep on asking them . . . lots of them! Here are some . . .

Question—Miss H. C. C.—What is the feature of the new spring coats?

Answer—My goodness, there are so many that it's hard to say! However if you choose . . . kasha for material, high shades for color, and fur about the hem for trimming, you can't possibly make a mistake!

Q.—Mrs. G. D. S.—What kind of picture would be appropriate to place above the mantel in a man's study?

A.—Why not get one of those lovely old maps? Framed in a narrow frame, it would be most quaint and appropriate. If you like, I can get you one through "House and Garden."

Q.—Mrs. G. M. D.—Is tinted stationery in good taste?

A.—Very pale shades are correct. Light gray and pale cream are among the smartest tints! Personally, I prefer white or ivory, but that, of course, is just a personal preference.

Q.—Miss V. L.—What is the correct length for skirts?

A.—Paris says that skirts shall be worn at "half mast," that is, about four inches below the knee. But, as my grandmother used to tell me, "an ounce of discretion is worth a pound of embarrassment," so after all, you'll have to rely, more or less, on your own judgment!

SPRING COATS So Characterful!

—Probably it's their colors, or their gracefully slim lines; or, the clever things that have happened to their necklines and lapels, that make this spring's coats more beautiful, more characterful than ever spring coats were before! . . . But, more probably it's the application of fur around the bottom, which gives a gracious, tilting effect that is strikingly smart, and extremely becoming. There is no fur around the neck!

Valentine Ball To Be Given At Piedmont Driving Club

With St. Valentine's Day in the offing all society is making preparations for the beautiful Valentine ball, an annual event at the Piedmont Driving club, at which the light fantastic will be tripped to the music of two jazz orchestras. Calvin Rolfe's Rainbow orchestra, recently returned from New Orleans, will alternate with Harry Pomar's Bohemians, in the latest dance selections.

One of the most enjoyable and attractive features of the dance will be the distribution of valentines, which may be posted during the week, at the office of the club by all members who desire to remember each other. This novel idea is an innovation of the club management, which promises to make the dance an unusual occasion.

The ballroom will be beautifully decorated with hearts, cupids, and other valentine suggestions, and exquisite imported favors will adorn the attractively appointed tables.

Lovely visitors are still the inspiration for delightful social affairs, Mrs. John L. Lamb, of Richmond, Va., who is visiting her son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Turner Jones, on Polo drive, will be honor guest at tea this afternoon at which Mrs. George M. Brown and Miss Carrie Hoyt Brown will entertain.

Mrs. J. Carroll Payne's luncheon at the Piedmont Driving club, today will honor Mrs. Howell Peoples, of Washington, D. C., who for the past week has been delightfully entertained at a number of informal affairs.

Mrs. Julius de Givie will give a bridge-tee this afternoon for Miss Martha Winship Ginn, of Boston, Mass., the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Lansing Bodeker on The Prado, who continues to be honored at many delightful affairs.

Captain and Mrs. A. K. Bolling, and Captain and Mrs. E. W. Leard will give a large dance at the Officers' club at Fort McPherson, assembling the army contingent.

George C. Aid celebrated and distinguished etcher will give a fascinating demonstration of making an etching at the meeting of the Fine Arts club, which will be held at 11 o'clock, in the lounge room of the Georgian Terrace hotel.

Clearing House Association To Honor Mr. Newton.

Prominent among the social affairs of the week will be the dinner at which the Atlanta Clearing House association will entertain Thursday evening at the Piedmont Driving club, assembling a brilliant company of the south's financial leaders.

Oscar Newton, formerly of Jackson, Mississippi, recently elected chairman of the board of the Federal Reserve Bank, will be the honor guest of the occasion.

Robert F. Maddox, chairman of the Atlanta and Lowry board, will give the welcoming address and Snowden McGaughey, president of the Atlanta Clearing House association and vice president of the Atlanta Trust company, will act as toastmaster.

Oscar Wells, of Birmingham, first vice president of the American Bankers' association, president of the First National Bank of Birmingham and a member of the advisory council of the Federal Reserve Board at Washington; Governor M. B. Wellborn, governor of the Federal Reserve bank of Atlanta, and Mrs. Newton will respond to the welcoming address.

Among the invited guests are the members of the Federal Reserve Board; of Washington; the directors of the branch banks located in Nashville, Birmingham, New Orleans, Jacksonville and Savannah, and the directors of the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta.

The committee in charge of the dinner is composed of Robert E. Harvey, vice president of the Atlanta Trust company; chairman: Henry W. Davis, vice president of the Atlanta and Lowry bank; and F. W. Blalock, secretary of the Atlanta Clearing House association and vice president of the Fulton National bank.

Fine Arts Club To Meet Today.

The Fine Arts club will meet at the Georgian Terrace this morning at 11 o'clock.

George Aid, the eminent etcher, will give a talk on the making of etchings.

The Fine Arts club extends an invitation to lovers of etchings to be present. Tickets may be had at the door for one dollar.

Miss Thomas Honors Miss Ginn.

Miss Irene Thomas was hostess Monday evening at an informal bridge party at her home on Barksdale drive in compliment to Miss Martha Winship Ginn, of Boston, Mass., who is the guest of Mrs. Lansing Bodeker.

Eight friends of the honor guest were invited.

A number of other lovely parties will honor Miss Ginn's stay in the city. This afternoon, Mrs. Julius DeGivie will give a bridge-tee at the Piedmont Driving club for this lovely visitor.

Miss Ginn will be central figure at the informal party to be given Thursday evening by Miss Elizabeth Bancker at her home on Piedmont avenue.

Recent Bride Is Honor Guest at Tea.

One of the loveliest parties given on Monday was the bridge-tee at which Miss Elizabeth Richardson entertained at her home on Ponce de Leon avenue in honor of Mrs. James Lenhardt, a recent bride.

Assisting in entertaining were: Mrs. W. E. Richardson and Mrs. W. M. Dunlap.

The tea table was covered with a handsome cloth of handmade lace. Gracing the center was a basket of spring blossoms in a variety of shades.

A feature of entertainment was the piano selections rendered by Cecil Hostetter, talented young Atlanta and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Hostetter.

The guests included: Mrs. Lenhardt, Miss Martha Boylin, Miss Venice Mayson, Miss Elvise Lewis, Miss Estelle Lindsey, Miss Mary Barnett, Miss Louise Sullivan, Miss Ruth Cruselle, Miss Clara Louise Scott, Miss Katherine Carter, Miss Martha Tomlinson, Mrs. Alfred Englehardt, of Akron, Ohio; Mrs. Charles Williams, Mrs. Fred Hubbell, Mrs. Fred Thomas, Mrs. Frank Carter, Mrs. Mrs. Jack Clark, Mrs. Van Kippell, Mrs. Heywood Douglass, Mrs. Joseph Owens, of Montgomery, Ala., and Mrs. Eugene Johnson.

Baptist Alumnae To Give Party.

The Georgia Baptist hospital alumnae will give a benefit valentine entertainment at the Nurses' club, 346 North Boulevard, Friday evening, February 13 at 8 o'clock.

Many Dinner Parties At Biltmore Center.

Many visitors and members of Atlanta society formed dinner parties at the Atlanta-Biltmore Sunday evening.

An exquisite concert, rendered by the orchestra directed by Enrico Leide.

Among those dining were Mr. and Mrs. H. P. West, Mr. and Mrs. George Bellinger, Dr. and Mrs. Le Roy Childs, Mr. and Mrs. William L. Meador, and their guests.

Susan Scruggs Jenkins, Mr. and Mrs. Gutzon Bogalump, Miss Martha Boynton, Mr. and Mrs. Frank O. Walsh, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Kaufman, Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Silverman, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Kingdon, Mrs. J. J. Lynch, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Dickson, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Childs, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Adair, Bowie Martin, Judge and Mrs. George Slater, of New York; Mr. Ann Bates Walsh, Mr. and Mrs. Max Olney, Dr. J. G. Williams, Dr. S. L. Silverman, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Braunmuller, Irvan Collier, Ernest Frankel, of Tokio; La O. Moseley, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Grant, Miss Josephine Willford, Miss Ellen Newell, Miss Rebecca Ashcraft, Miss Mary Brown Spalding, R. C. Mack, John Harkins, J. J. Lynch, S. M. Farley, Miss Sallie Maudie Jones, of Athens; F. W. Truex, B. R. Kingdon, Oscar Williams, and others.

EDUCATION BOARD CONSIDERS BUDGET AT MEETING TODAY

A number of important matters, including balancing of this year's budget with appropriation granted by city council last month, will be considered this afternoon by the board of education.

President John T. Hancock has stated that the appropriation is approximately $800,000 short of the amount necessary for the year's work.

Several members of the board are said to favor following the precedent set last year by balancing the sheet to September 1, while others probably will advocate slashing expenses in an attempt to make the amount last throughout the year.

Amendments to the rules by which the board would revert to the committee form in effect previous to 1924, also will be considered.

Seminary Glee And Mandolin Club To Give Concert

The Washington Seminary Glee and Mandolin club will give its first performance Friday evening, February 20, at 8:30 o'clock in the school auditorium.

The concert will be under the direction of Miss Margaret B. Battle, voice teacher at the seminary and W. B. Griffith, of the Griffith school of music.

The leading parts will be taken by the voice pupils of the school.

The program will be very interesting and will be devoted to both the modern and old-fashioned songs. Act one will be composed entirely of modern music and jazz, while act two will be devoted to more dignified and old-fashioned scenes.

Miss Lillian Cohn of Albany, Ga., will give a popular jazz number, "Me and My Boy Friend," including a dance.

Miss Ruth Miller will be a popular number on the program.

An interesting feature will be an old-fashioned minuet, danced by Misses Virginia Turman and Lucy Marion.

"Hats," a humorous, yet dignified poem with a musical background, will be given by Miss Priscilla Hunt.

A number of selections will be given by the quartet composed of Misses Margaret Kelley, Frances Howard, Katherine Ginn and Billy Johnson.

The dance numbers will be in charge of Miss Irene Thomas.

Miss Sara Sanders is president of the club, Miss Katherine Ginn, vice president; Miss Kathryn Campbell, secretary; and Miss Laura Candler, treasurer.

The officers of the mandolin club are: Miss Jennie Grey Pearce, president; Miss Priscilla Hunt, vice president; and Miss Florence Eckford, business manager.

H. Danforth are spending the month of February touring through Florida.

Mrs. J. J. Carnes and Mrs. P. E. LeStourgeon have recalled the invitations for their party on February 13 on account of the serious illness of Mrs. LeStourgeon.

Mrs. William Candler is ill with influenza at her home on Springdale road.

Mrs. Susan Scruggs Jenkins, of New York, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. William L. Meador, at her home on Peachtree street.

The Baron DeKalb chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, meeting at the home of Mrs. Carl Hudgins, in Decatur, elected the following delegates to the state conference: Mrs. John A. Montgomery and Mrs. Dana Burgess; to continental congress, Mrs. E. A. Warwick and Mrs. Edward Jones.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Glenn, of 771 Piedmont avenue, announce the birth of a daughter Thursday, February 5, at Wesley Memorial hospital. Mrs. Glenn was before her marriage Miss Hattie May Finney.

Mrs. G. S. Senby and her daughter, Miss Gertrude Senby, of Chicago, Ill., are spending several days at the Biltmore en route to Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Arnall, of Oklahoma City, stopped over in Atlanta today en route to Locust Grove, Ga., to spend several weeks with relatives there and in other places in Georgia.

Col. Hamilton B. Horey, of New Orleans, is a guest at the Atlanta Biltmore.

J. A. Cochran and Miss June Mary D. Cochran, of New York city, will be at the Biltmore hotel until Wednesday.

Prominent New York visitors registered at the Atlanta Biltmore hotel include A. Raymond Ellis, W. R. Mann, Frank Dick, W. H. Hutchings and Harry D. Tipton.

Mayor and Mrs. R. Freeland Kendrick, of Philadelphia, are guests at the Atlanta Biltmore. Mayor Kendrick was formerly imperial potentate of the Shrine.

Mrs. H. W. French and son, H. W. Jr., are sending a couple of weeks with Mr. French's sister, Mrs. T. E. Hamilton, of Orlando, Fla., and will spend a week also with Mrs. E. D. Lambright, of Tampa, Fla.

Edgar Guest To Lecture In Atlanta

Edgar A. Guest, the well known poet, will lecture at the Atlanta Woman's club on February 16. This lecture will afford all those who are interested in the poet and his work a delightful opportunity to hear the man who has been styled "the common people's philosopher."

In 1913, Mr. Guest was president of the American Press Humorsists, and he is said to be one of the most interesting personalities appearing on the American platform today. Although he has attained wide popularity and distinction, he still numbers his friends among the class who wear overalls, and the newboys who sell papers on the streets.

The underlying note of Mr. Guest's poems is a sympathetic understanding of all mankind. He is the poet of the simple things of life, and is more concerned with the rosy, glowing life itself around the cottage door, than he is with the palace with a gilded dome.

Mr. Guest is being brought to Atlanta by the Atlanta Writers' club, but the public is cordially invited to hear his lecture.

Tenth St. P. T. A. Holds Meeting.

At the meeting of the Tenth Street P. T. A. on Wednesday, Mrs. J. H. Alexander announced that a scout troop for boys had been organized and had held three meetings.

Through the efforts of the very enthusiastic steering committee, consisting of A. H. Codrington, Dr. H. F. M. Duffie and Major L. A. Falgout, it was possible to procure Edward Everett Morris as scout master for the troop.

Mrs. P. H. Hanahan spoke interestingly of the pre-school work. She urged the interest of the P. T. A. association in the pre-school age child. Mrs. Carl Hutcheson, chairman of house committees, read resolutions to be presented to the board of education.

AILMENTS OF YOUNG GIRLS

Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound
School Teacher's Experience

Evansville, Wis.—"A few years ago I had troubles every month such as I had before, and would suffer awfully every time. I was teaching school and it made it hard for me as I had to go to bed for two or three days. One day my mother suggested that I take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which I did, and it did wonders for me. In the course of a year I married and after my first baby was born I got up too soon and it caused a displacement. This troubled me so that I could hardly walk or do my housework. I knew what the Vegetable Compound did for me before so I took it again. It strengthened me and now I have five little kiddies. The eldest is six, the baby is five months old and I have twin boys three years old and a boy of five years. I do all my own housework, washing and ironing, and I never felt better in my life. I owe my health to your wonderful medicine."—Mrs. VERBENA CARPENTER, 127 2nd Avenue, Evansville, Wis.

Mission Study Rally To Meet This Week

An all-day mission study rally is being planned for Friday, February 13, by Mrs. L. O. Freeman, secretary of the fifth district, and Mrs. H. E. Wall, president of the College Park Woman's Missionary society. This meeting will be held at College Park, in the Baptist church, beginning at 10 o'clock in the morning, with the local society as hostess of the occasion.

The day will be devoted to the study of "Women and the Leaven in Japan." This wonderfully interesting and informing book will be taught by Mrs. Harvey Clark who has spent many years as a missionary in Japan. All members of the Baptist missionary societies of the fifth district, Atlanta association, are cordially invited to be present at this meeting.

College Park Club Plans Tree Planting

Wednesday's meeting of the College Park Woman's club was featured by an enthusiastic demonstration of interest in plans for the beautiful tree-planting enterprise to be sponsored by the departments of forestry and good roads, with Mrs. Howard Stakely and Mrs. W. C. Mizelle as chairmen. On Feb. 18, the day scheduled for planting, rose-pink crepe myrtles, designated as victory trees, will be placed in the park-way bordering Main street and running the entire length of the town. Many of these trees will be planted in honor of our prominent citizens whose lives have been woven into College Park's most vital and worthwhile history.

Other trees will be placed by individuals as memorials to loved ones, thus making of this a road of living remembrance. The club will honor its former presidents, also its present president, Mrs. L. O. Freeman, by planting in the section to be known as "presidents' block" a tree for each of them. The ex-presidents named in order of their accession to office are, Mrs. Woods White, Mrs. John Temple Graves, Mrs. W. Williamson, Mrs. Ben Willingham, Mrs. B. W. Martin, Mrs. D. C. Lyle, Mrs. Alonzo Richardson, Mrs. D. R. Gray, Mrs. Oscar Palmour, Mrs. Edwin Long and Mrs. R. T. Adair. All of whom are most cordially invited to be guests of honor on this occasion.

At the meeting of Wednesday, plans were outlined by Mrs. H. W. Sullivan, chairman of citizenship, for an orchestral concert to be given at an early date. This concert will be put on by the band and orchestra of Georgia Military academy, under the supervision of Captain O'Neal, director. The entertainment will be one of high merit, for in this group are violin, cornet and trombone artists of recognized ability. Some of Atlanta's best talent will also be heard in beautiful musical numbers at this time. Captain O'Neal was accorded the club's hearty appreciation and interest in his concert plans.

The program hour was devoted to discussions on junior work and child welfare, with Mrs. Charles Center and Mrs. Edward Richardson as chairmen. Mrs. D. F. Stevenson, vice president of the Atlanta Woman's club, stressed the importance of enlisting the interest and efforts of junior girls along the same constructive lines of work now being so successfully followed by the women's clubs of the state. Burr Blackburn, leader of Atlanta's social agencies, gave a lucid interpretation of the Georgia children's code, and clearly indicated the need of further legislation for the protection of Georgia's unfortunate women and dependent children.

The afternoon's musical feature, under the direction of Mrs. W. H. Bateman, was beautiful and unique. Little Regina Pudney, College Park's most talented baby artist, rendered a piano selection. Violin and piano numbers were given by a trio of Atlanta's most notable junior entertainers, Elizabeth, Margaret and Edwin Morgan.

TOBACCO FIELDS READY IN HANCOCK COUNTY

Sparta, Ga., February 9.—(Special.) Tobacco Expert Rankin, who is making preparations for a big crop of the "weed" on the David Dickson plantation, near here, stated Saturday that he will be ready to put out his tobacco plants as soon as the weather is suitable. Plant beds were prepared weeks ago and everything put in readiness for the new crop. Mr. Rankin came here last season from the tobacco section of North Carolina and states this county is one of the coming tobacco-growing sections of the state.

My Matrimonial Vacation by VIOLET DARE

AUTHOR OF "The Half-Time Wife," "The Husband Tamer," "One Wife on Approval," etc.

WHO'S WHO AND WHAT'S HAPPENED. NANCY CLEMENTS' elopes with JIM LARABEE the day of his graduation at West Point. Her mother, VIRGINIA CLEMENTS, a social climber, who has expected Nancy to make a brilliant marriage, is disgusted, but still hopes to see Nancy to advantage in her gait.

TODAY'S INSTALLMENT.

IT-A CRITICAL MOMENT.

My marriage was so romantic, and so unhappy, that it seems like something out of a story, not a real affair at all. When Jim and I went to Virginia and told her that we were married she was angrier than I have ever seen anyone before. Then, suddenly, she had hysterics, not real ones, I saw through her at once. She had decided that she wouldn't gain anything by being angry with Jim, and thought she'd try something else.

She begged his pardon for being so horrid, and was doubly sweet to us both. She wanted to know where we were going to live. He said that he'd be stationed at Governor's Island, just a stone's throw from New York. The first year anyway.

"How charming," she exclaimed. "Then I'll often have you with me." We just played around all that first summer. I was very happy, except when we ran into girls and women whom Jim had known before he knew me. They all seemed to have flirted violently with him, to say the least. But I didn't care.

In the early fall we went to our new home. The furniture Uncle Sam gave us wasn't so bad, I thought, though our house was like a barn. But Virginia lamented over it, and urged me to make the place attractive for Jim. She'd go shopping with me, and somehow I found that I bought awfully expensive things. But I'd never known much about money—she had always managed that.

I had to have autumn clothes, of course. We had two servants, because I knew nothing about house-keeping. Virginia kept a personal maid who looked after me too. And there were awfully little things, like flowers for the house, that made the bills pile up.

Virginia warned me that I must be careful not to do anything that would make me lose my looks.

"Jim's so attractive that women will always run after him," she said. "And if you let yourself get run down and messy looking you'll lose him and it will be your own fault."

Jim was worried when the bills came in—a second lieutenant can't afford luxuries, and he had nothing but his pay. I was worried, too. But Virginia lived with us, as he had urged her to, and we entertained a good deal, and somehow the bills never got any smaller.

Virginia was always fussing about what would happen to me when Jim got detailed for foreign service.

"Just look at that little Mrs. Eaton, whose father was stationed at the islands a few years ago," she said. "She's hardly recovered her looks yet. And Major Cane's wife told me that it absolutely ruined her health when she was there. You'll always be so delicate—never could stand severe heat—I'm so worried."

That scared Jim too. He'd protest that if one knew how to live in the tropics it was really beneficial, but Virginia would always remind him that he'd never lived there and didn't know anything about it.

I'd have gone anywhere with him, though. Then something happened that changed everything.

I came into the house quite unexpectedly one afternoon when I'd thought I'd go over to New York, and changed my mind. Mrs. Eaton was in our living room, with Jim—in his arms.

I turned and ran upstairs to my own room, trembling so that I could hardly move. I knew that he'd known her before; her husband had been

"It will kill Nancy," my mother protested. "It will just kill her! She's not strong—why, she's ill even now."

Jim looked at me anxiously. I was ill—I'd lain awake nights and eaten my heart out days over him and Claire Eaton.

"Perhaps—perhaps she'd better stay here with you," he said slowly. "Perhaps she had," answered Virginia. I said nothing.

And, after a lot of talk, that was what they agreed on. He'd go to the islands alone, and save money, and pay the ghastly bills we'd run up. And for a while, at least, I'd remain in New York, with Virginia.

I was too unhappy to care where I stayed. All I knew was that my husband apparently was in love with another woman, and didn't care what became of me.

BEAUTY CHATS BY EDNA K. FORBES.

ANSWERED LETTERS.

Miss Lillian S.—You should stop wearing the tight brassiere and give your figure a chance to develop naturally. At 15 years of age, with a height of five feet, four inches, your weight of 132 pounds is about 15 pounds more than normal. You may not weigh any more than this after you have fully grown up, and your proportions will be all right at that time.

H. L. S.—Try a simple bleach like lemon juice for the moles; if this does not help you can have them removed by a dermatologist. Fortunately, yours are the small flat brown moles that yield quickly through a process of impigmentation. You can reduce your weight by eating less starchy, oily, or sweet foods. Train your appetite by eating a little less at each meal than you have been doing in the past. You may be a trifle uncomfortable for a few days as your stomach will be going through a process of shrinking, but after that you will not require the same amount of bulk so you will have no discomfort.

A. F.—You probably have indigestion which causes these attacks of pimples on your neck and back. Temporary relief may be had by taking castor oil or any other simple cathartic; however if you have them often you should watch your diet and eat only such foods as agree with you. There should always be enough green vegetables, salads, and fruit to balance with the starches and oils.

Fidelis—Warm, moist hands indicate a run down condition of the system so you will need to build up through a carefully regulated diet. Take some of this powder with you when you go out to a dance and wipe your hands occasionally and dust the palms with powder whenever you find them becoming unpleasantly moist. The same powder can be used for excessive perspiration under the arms.

but you will have to improve your general health in order to overcome the tendency.

Blue Eyed Sally—You may be using the sprained ankle too much, which would account for the swelling's continuance. Sprains are usually a long time coming around unless there is complete rest. If you cannot rest the ankle a great deal of the time, you should keep it bandaged properly. This means either a doctor or a nurse, who understands this work, should do the strapping and watch the progress of your recovery.

Tomorrow: Pedicuring.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if personal or quicker reply is desired a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question. The Editor.

Where the Great Ship Fortunatus Makes Port

An Editorial by James Wallen

If you were to sit through a long evening at a fireside in Normandy or Brittany, someone would surely tell you the silvery tale of Fortunatus, who was given a purse which could never be emptied.

No wonder many a ship destined for deep sea trade was named for this singular hero. In the dark holds of ships is stowed away immeasurable loveliness to be exchanged for gold.

A great store like that of Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose is a part of the ship Fortunatus. From work-benches, looms, sewing-rooms and studios all over the world there is an incessant flow of beautiful things to this establishment.

The service of garnering this merchandise is well described by H. Gordon Selfridge, England's eminent merchant. "Buyers are continually sent skimming here, there and everywhere to buy of well-known and tried makers, or to discover hidden away in some almost inaccessible village a little, unknown maker who is producing some fine trifle of commercial value."

An old chronicler wrote of the fairs of Brie that they were glorious because "Burgundy sent cloth, Catalonia cotton and the Genoese and Florentines brought silks." The Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose store is always an education and a delight—a permanent exposition of the world's finest merchandise.

And this merchandise is honestly, sensibly and equitably priced. Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose admit the right of the craftsman to his reward, the right of the seller to compensation for service and, above all, the right of the consumer to a bountiful measure of value.

The Ensemble Costume

So favored of fashion this charming mode, no woman but will need at least one in her spring wardrobe.

So modest the prices on the spring models that the question of "can I afford one?" need not arise!

Models Delightfully Varied

Coats of Kasha and fine soft flannels are perhaps most popular, although heavy silks and charmeens are frequently used.

Endless variety is achieved in the dress of solid tone crepe or satin or the gay new prints in very bold designs and colors. The coat may be unlined or, most frequently, lined to match the dress, sometimes with a band of fur at the hem. Coats of georgette veil dresses of printed crepes.

The dress may be the simplest tailored frock or dressy enough for afternoon occasions. Especially attractive are many featuring new jabot effects sometimes down the entire front.

For Sports or Dress

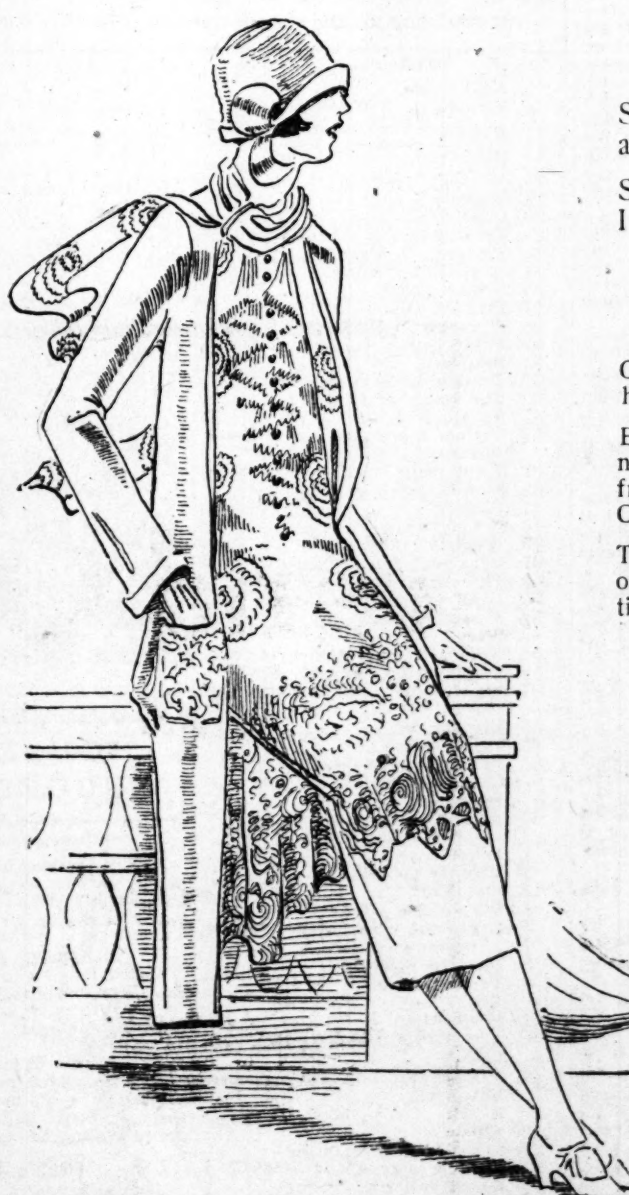

Ensembles are shown in models for sports, country club, street wear and for dress occasions. Quite attractive are models modestly priced at $24.75 to $35.00, and others at

Burned Evidence

By MRS. WILSON WOODROW

SYNOPSIS.
The story is being told by young Dandridge, junior member of a New York firm of lawyers. Old Jerome Fosdick, one of the richest clients of the firm, invites Dandridge to lunch at his home. The young lawyer interested in the old man's granddaughter, Sara, a beautiful young society woman, who is Fosdick's sole heir. Fosdick tells Dandridge that Sara's father, his only son, had spent many years in South America, where he died. After his death a South American woman took up with baby Sara, whose mother, the nurse said, had died soon after the baby's father. Fosdick investigated the woman's story and found it to be true.

INSTALLMENT VIII. SINISTER DETAILS.

Dr. Deane sat down and, as he talked, tapped his eyeglasses in the palm of his left hand.

"Upon a superficial examination," he went on, "and from our knowledge of the condition of the deceased, both Dr. Walton and myself were disposed to regard it as a case of cerebral hemorrhage. Mr. Fosdick was vigorous and well preserved for a man of his years; but at eighty the arteries are treacherous, and I repeatedly warned him against undue exertion, mental or overexertion. We supposed—and all the indications bore us out—that his age had simply exacted its claim."

"But later"—he paused as if for emphasis—"the undertaker reported that he had discovered a small, fresh puncture, just below the base of the left ear, made, one would judge, with a stiletto-like instrument, but of insignificant depth—scarcely more than a scratch. Nevertheless, this taken in connection with other features of the case, aroused our suspicions, and we set about finding the cause and nature of the injury. Dr. Watson, glancing approval at his assistant, suggested a search of the car, and discovered—Dr. Walton, will you show Mr. Dandridge the—er—exhibit?"

The younger man, flushing self-consciously, drew on a pair of gloves, shook something from a white envelope into the palm of one, and held it out to me. "It was a small dart, needle pointed."

"Bamboo," he said. "It was lying on the floor of the car, probably shaken loose from the old man in the swift, convulsive movement that preceded death. Poisoned, of course. I retrieved it with gloves on, I can tell you."

As I stared at the deadly splinter, the whole situation seemed horribly unreal. This was the sort of disconnected, sinister, bizarre thing one dreams.

"But Mr. Fosdick was the last man in the world—to commit suicide!" I exclaimed. "Why should he?"

"It wasn't suicide," Inspector Curran spoke up. His voice was mild; he was a compact, grayish man with a tight, florid face and tight blue eyes. "When Mr. Fosdick was found, his hands in furled gloves were in his overcoat pockets. If he had tried to drive that dart into his neck with those clumsy gloves on, he'd have fumbled, probably dropped it. No; he'd have taken off one glove. Then, if the poison was instantaneous, as the doctors think, he would not have had time to pull it on again, and put his hand in his pocket."

"It looks like this to me." He was sitting before a table, and he kept idly drawing lines on a piece of paper with his pencil while he talked. "Fosdick came out of Tiffany's, got into his car, and then, after they got moving, gave the order to drive up Fifth avenue. Evidently he was then all right. They made no stops until the chauffeur discovered his condition at Fifty-ninth street, except at Forty-second street, where, according to the chauffeur, they were held four minutes to let by the cross-town traffic. Undoubtedly, it was during this halt that the thing was done. The time was between ten minutes and a quarter after three; for the chauffeur says he noted by the clock in the traffic tower that they started again exactly on the quarter hour. While they were standing, this dart was discharged at the old man through the open window of the car; for, bundled up as he was, careful aim was required to reach an exposed surface, and had they been moving, the murderer would never have risked it."

"But it hardly seems possible, inspector," deprecated Dr. Deane. "Even with the hurrying, indifferent crowds on Fifth avenue, for a man to stop and take aim from the sidewalk would—"

"But it wasn't from the sidewalk, doctor," Curran interrupted tranquilly. "Have you forgotten that the puncture was on Mr. Fosdick's left side? Here, I'll show you!" He drew a series of dashes to illustrate his words. "This is the Fosdick car on the outside of the up-town line, next to the curb; chauffeur says so. Here, it stops at the signal. Up beside it ranges a car that had been trailing it—say, since the time it left Tiffany's. Fosdick is sitting on the left side of his car. The window beside him is down; it is a bright, clear day, and he likes the air. The window of the adjacent car is also down. Beside it is somebody—let's say, a woman—scarcely three feet between them. With an air pistol or blowpipe she takes accurate aim, probably shielding the weapon from view with her muff, and lets the old man have it. Fosdick gives a start; but before he can cry out, or take his hands from his pockets, he collapses. Nobody, not even the chauffeur, notices him. The yellow light goes on, and the up and down town traffic starts again. The murder car follows the procession for a block or two, then turns off into a side street. The thing is over."

It was a vivid reconstruction of the crime, and one that could hardly be gainsaid. Dr. Deane nodded his acquiescence, and then asked curiously: "But why a woman, inspector?"

Curran hunched a dapper shoulder. "Looks that way. A bit too subtle for a man. But, map or woman, it was a foreigner—a Javanese, Polynesian, or South American—or somebody who has lived in one of those countries."

A woman who had lived in South America! I gave an involuntary exclamation, but caught myself and turned it into a cough. Sara was concerned in this; those ugly accusations against her mother. I must consult with her before I say anything.

"Did you speak, Mr. Dandridge?" A quick, blue beam from the inspector's eye darted in my direction. "No? Well, anyhow, I am hoping for some help from you on this case. You were Mr. Fosdick's personal attorney; you ought to know if he had any reason to expect this, if there was anything in his life that—"

"No," I stiffened; I don't think I gave any sign of what was passing through my mind. "Mr. Fosdick's accounts were all practically closed; business, legal and private. Besides, Inspector Curran, my acquaintance with him was slight. Mr. Plummer, my senior partner, now aboard, introduced me to him on New Year's eve, and the day after New Year's I came here to luncheon and spent an hour or two talking to him and Miss Fosdick. I haven't seen or heard from him since."

Curran was touching up one of his drawings, his head on one side. "H'm!" he commented. "And his secretary tells me the old man has received no ambiguous or threatening letters, telegrams, or messages of any kind. It all looks rather tight, but perhaps we'll be able to drill through it somewhere. Well—"

He was interrupted by a knock on the door, and Pardy, bowing to Dr. Deane, murmured: "It's Dr. Ridgely, sir, on the telephone. He says he will meet you at his laboratory in fifteen minutes."

Walton picked up his gloves and the white envelope, and he and Dr. Deane, after saying goodbye, left the room.

"Dr. Ridgely is the toxicologist," Curran explained. "But we won't know much more when he gets through than we do now. It goes without saying, that dart was dipped in some undetectable vegetable poison. They won't find a trace of it in the autopsy."

He fell silent, seemingly absorbed in his meaningless drawing. "Nothing more that I can do for you, inspector?" I asked. "I believe not," he did not lift his eyes from the paper. "If there is, I'll communicate with you. Thank you for coming, Mr. Dandridge. Good afternoon."

I went out to find Pardy again, deciding to write. "Urgent," upon the card I had previously given him to take to Sara.

But Miss O'Connor, the secretary, came swiftly forward as I started for the stairs.

"How do you do, Mr. Dandridge," she intercepted me, "Miss Fosdick is waiting for you."

I do not think I have mentioned the mouse woman's voice, nor the impression it made on me the first time I heard it. Rich and soft, it transformed her from a nonentity into a personality. All the color, the life of her, was in it.

She led the way down the corridor, knocked, and then opened the door. Sara was standing by the table, but had grown pale, but here were mellow lights, and I noticed a faint, fresh fragrance as from pine branches.

Sara held out her hand to me.

"It was good of you to come," she said simply. "Just think; only a few hours ago, Grand kissed me good-bye when he went out! He wanted to go alone; to choose a birthday present for me, I am sure. O, why didn't I insist on some one, myself or Miss Mouse, going with him! I shall never forgive myself."

Miss Mouse? I couldn't doubt that she meant the secretary; and how apt and inevitable the name.

AIN'T EDUCATION GRAND?
By Jean Gillespie.
In college days I studied Greek and Latin composition; three modern languages I speak, which is some acquisition. In calculus I was a star, in history a whiz. In economics I stood high, I led in every quiz. At chemistry, psychology, zoology, and art, Philosophy and English, too, I worked with all my heart. Not any subject in the course did I omit to try; The faculty with one accord predicted I'd go high.

take baby to the park; Some clothes to iron, pie to bake; by then it's getting dark. I fry some chops, I slice some bread and quickly set the table; When dinner's done I sneak to bed as soon as I am able. Then, round my bed I seem to see my college credits stand, Derivative ghosts that grin at me. Ain't education grand?
